Pres. Eisenhower
Makes Announcement
Of His New Chief
For Supreme Court

BULLETIN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Earl Warren today accepted the nomination of chief justice of the United States.

The three-time governor said he was resigning as California's chief executive tonight Sunday and would be in Washington Monday to take oath when the Supreme Court convenes.

He said he would confer immediately with Republican Lt. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to acquaint him with office details and current state problems.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Gov. Earl Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States.

The President told his news conference the 62-year-old Warren, a Republican, will make a great chief justice, and that he will be on the bench of the high court when it opens its fall session Monday.

The recess appointment of Warren as successor to the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson is subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January. Vinson died of a heart attack Sept. 8.

Warren's appointment had been so widely predicted that the President, in announcing it, remarked that he was conferring something that was hardly news.

The President described Warren as a man with a reputation for integrity, honesty and middle of the road politics.

He went on to say the new chief justice is experienced in government and in the law—that he is healthy and strong.

Eisenhower added with a laugh that Warren at 62 is relatively young—if, he said, you can call a man about Eisenhower's own age relatively young.

The self-made lawyer son of Scandinavian immigrants, Warren has combined programs of social gains and a jovial personality to win three terms as governor.

The governor—6 feet 1 inch, weighing 215 pounds—has never been a judge. But he made a reputation as a vigorous crime prosecutor during 14 years as district attorney of big Alameda County and 4 years as state attorney general.

Warren has never lost a state or local election in 30 years of public service. He began being talked about for the presidency in the 1940s. He refused to be considered for the vice presidential nomination in 1944, but ran for vice president on the losing ticket with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in 1948.

At the 1952 GOP convention, he received 81 votes for the presidential nomination out of a total of 1,206.

He announced Sept. 3 he would not seek a fourth term as governor next year.

In 1946 Warren swept both the Republican and Democratic nominations for governor in the primaries under California's cross-filing system. No other candidate for that office had ever done so.

Warren had an unprecedented third term in 1950, he outpolled Democrat James Roosevelt by more than a million votes in a state where Democrats outregistered Republicans 3-2.

Some of Warren's critics have contended his policies border on socialism. Neutrals have called him a middle-of-the-roader. He has been called a progressive Republican trying to keep up with the times. In one of his campaign speeches he said:

"I am convinced the American people are not Socialists and will not tolerate socialist government, but they are definitely committed to social progress."

He is an advocate of social security and of compulsory health insurance. He favors collective bargaining and has spoken out for labor's right to strike. He insists on "one law for all men," backs the United Nations and world co-operation, and favors a bipartisan foreign policy and aid to "our friends in the free world."

The Warrens were married in 1925. She was a widow with a son, James, who is now 34. The other Warren children are Virginia, 24; Earl Jr., 23; Dorothy, 22; Nina (Honeybear), 19, and Bobby, 18. Warren was raised in the Methodist church, now attends the Baptist.

Out Like Leopard

September, which has been spotted with rain, heat, cold—and covered with the golden color of the sun's rays—makes its quiet (not stormy) exit tonight like a leopard softly stalking its prey.

The temperature at 7 a.m. was 58; 93 at 1 p.m., and 94 at 2 p.m.

One year ago today here high 91, low 60. Two years ago high 82, low 58.

Fair tonight and Thursday; warmer Friday and Saturday; warmer tonight and Thursday; low tonight in the 50s, and high on Thursday in the upper 80s.

Diplomats Say Soviet Tries German Mixup

May Seek to Stop
Big Power Meeting
On Unification

WASHINGTON (AP)—Western diplomats said today Russia may be trying to torpedo proposals for a big power meeting on German unification now because her position in Germany is weak.

This idea was advanced as one possible, even probable, explanation for the note which Russia delivered to the Western Powers earlier this week. The note made various demands and accusations in connection with the Western proposal for a foreign ministers' conference on Germany on Oct. 15 at Lugano, Switzerland.

The State Department labeled the Soviet note "evasive," and said the Russians were using "dilatatory tactics."

The Soviets made acceptance of "the legal rights" of Red China to a position in the United Nations a first consideration in solution of Asian problems and in lessening of world tensions generally. They said there should be "continual participation" by Red China in such efforts.

It was learned that careful high-level consideration was given to the idea that the Kremlin may now find itself in such a weak position in East Germany—symptoms include the popular uprisings two months ago—that it is simply unwilling to go into East-West talks on the subject.

Yet, according to this theory, the Soviets are unwilling to take a negative position and so have thrown up a series of conditions unacceptable in the American viewpoint in order to block the project and blame this country.

U. S. officials and other diplomats agreed this was by no means the only possible explanation to fit the major facts. Three others were suggested:

1. The Reds may be trying to marshal world opinion anxious for real peace to force the United States to recognize the Chinese Communist government and deal with it as a big power.

2. The Kremlin may be seeking to create a situation in which it can bargain simultaneously on a number of East-West issues, hoping thereby to wring new concessions from the West.

3. The Kremlin may be trying to exploit to the fullest the differences which exist among the Western Powers on such major problems as recognition of Red China, the war in Indochina and proposed arming of West Germany.

The Soviet note, given to the U. S., British and French embassies in Moscow Monday, was made public last night in an unofficial translation by the State Department.

Secretary of State Dulles, the U. S. ambassador to Moscow, Charles E. Bohlen, and other officials had spent much time going over it, apparently without being quite sure what it was supposed to say. Officials said a reply would be made by the Western Powers after considerable consultation.

The Western Powers had proposed on Sept. 2 a meeting at Lugano. The Russians did a lot of talking in their reply about the need for high-level work on the German problem but they did not accept the Lugano proposal. That makes it highly unlikely the meeting will be held there Oct. 15.

Instead the Russians proposed either one conference of two parts, or two conferences, along these lines:

1. The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France, Communist China and Russia to consider "measures to lessen tension in international relations."

2. The foreign ministers of the Big Four, without Red China, to discuss "the German problem."

RIVERSIDE, Mo. (AP)—A filling station attendant was found shot to death early today near his station in Riverside, a small community on the outskirts of Kansas City.

He was identified as Willard B. Hastings of Kansas City. He had been shot with a small caliber pistol. The body was found about 45 feet from the station.

Randy Collins, manager of the station, said Hastings had been robbed of about $80 but the money in the cash register had not been touched.

T.R. Jennings Burns to Death In Home Near Green Ridge

Veteran of World War II Believed to Have Been Smoking In Bed: Neighbors Discover
Fire But Get to Scene Too Late to Help

Thomas Roscoe Jennings, a veteran of World War II, was found burned to death early Wednesday after his one-room dwelling had been destroyed by fire. The home was about five miles north and west of Green Ridge. Jennings was about 42 years old.

Freddie Miller, who resides a short distance from the Jennings home, said Mrs. Miller first noticed the fire shortly after midnight Tuesday when she got up to care for their nine-year-old daughter, Rhoda Sue, who is ill. He said she called to him and he looked out and saw the fire and decided to investigate.

Miller went to the farms of Norman Hill and Wallace Bullard and together the three went to the place to see what was happening. When they arrived the roof and walls had already fallen in. It wasn't until the fire had died down enough to get close to it that they were able to tell if anyone was in the structure.

They found the body of Jennings at the foot of his bed near where it was said he kept his clothes hanging. They obtained water and threw it on the fire around the body.

Deputy Sheriff Ed George was notified and he arrived at the scene shortly after 3 a.m. Upon learning the body of Jennings was in the ruins, he had Dr. J. M. Rodeman, acting coroner for Dr. C. Gordon Stauffer, who is out of the city, notified.

Dr. Rodeman arrived at the place about 4 a.m. and conducted an investigation, questioned neighbors and reported that he did not feel an inquest was necessary. Dr. Rodeman reported that neighbors informed him Jennings often smoked in bed and several times his bed had caught fire from smoking in bed, when he would fall asleep and the lighted cigarette would set fire to the bed.

Neighbors said Jennings had been employed at the Sedalia Air Force Base. They also said that they saw a car at the place about 7:30 p.m. Tuesday night, but did not know who might have been there, unless it was someone taking him home.

According to the neighbors, he and his wife separated about three weeks ago. She was believed to have gone to Knob Noster where it was reported she had employment.

Before the fire died down, his cousin, Reynolds True and Mrs. Truel, who reside a short distance from the farm, arrived on the scene along with Tony Smith, also a neighbor. Mr. and Mrs. Truel, after viewing the scene, went to a neighboring farm and notified Jennings' relatives.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Grace Phyllis Jennings; his mother, Mrs. Maggie Cline; his brother, Robert; his sister, Mrs. Jennings of Monticourt, Jesse Lee Jennings, Kansas City, and sisters, Mrs. Opal Veatch, Centerville.

Kidnapers Keep Fate of Child From Its Parents

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cold-blooded kidnapers, apparently adopting delaying tactics, kept the fate of 6-year-old Bobby Greenleaf from his anguished parents.

The child, son of a millionaire automobile dealer, was abducted two days ago while attending classes at the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion, a private school.

A spokesman for the family said no contact with the person or persons holding the boy had been made. The father, Robert C. Greenleaf, said he believes the kidnapers are criminals are involved, making it more likely Bobby will be released unharmed.

Police reported they had obtained no new information that would lead them to believe they are on the right trail.

Greenleaf, through a banker friend, made arrangements to obtain cash at any time of the day or night, should the need arise.

Robert Lederman, a business associate and spokesman for the family, said the whereabouts of the child is a mystery.

"We have received about eight telephone calls during the day from cranks who say they have the child," Lederman said yesterday. "I talk to the persons making the calls and ask them questions about the appearance of the boy or what he was wearing."

"That ends the conversations because they don't know the answers. On several occasions the telephone rang and there would be nobody at the other end when we answered."

Lederman and Greenleaf, saying it appeared the kidnapers were trying to make contact, left the Greenleaf home in suburban Mission Hills, Kan., for a brief period yesterday. When they returned, however, they said no contact had been made.

Greenleaf told a reporter: "About all we can do is sweat, wring our hands and hope."

Engine Sparks Start Serious Grass Fire

HAMILTON, Mo. (AP)—A series of grass fires near a railroad right of way for a time threatened homes at Breckenridge, Mo., but was checked by firefighters from Hamilton and Breckenridge.

The fires, apparently started by sparks from a steam engine, burned about 25 acres of pasture land on three farms.

Mrs. Patton, General's Wife, Fatally Hurt

Thrown from Horse
During Drag Hunt:
Dies This Morning

HAMILTON, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Ayer Patton, widow of Gen. George S. Patton, famed World War II third army commander, was killed today when thrown from a saddle horse.

Mrs. Patton's death was the third major tragedy in the family in recent years.

Her husband was killed in a collision between his jeep and another vehicle while serving in Europe.

Their daughter, Beatrice, wife of Army Officer John K. Waters, died about a year ago unexpectedly.

Her mother at that time was at sea in the Patton yacht, "When and If," which had been so named by the general because he hoped "when and if he retired" to go on a world cruise.

Mrs. Patton, 67, was riding with 30 friends in a drag hunt sponsored by the exclusive Myopia Hunt Club.

Mrs. Patton leaves a son, Army Capt. George S. Patton, III.

Mrs. Patton also leaves a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Ellen Totton of Carlisle, Pa.

Her son, Lt. Col. Patton, now is in Tokyo, on leave from Korea, where he recently was decorated.

A postal stamp honoring the late General Patton has been scheduled for issuance at St. Knox, Ky., Armistice Day, Nov. 11. The Pattons' son-in-law, who was husband of their late daughter Beatrice, Brig. Gen. John K. Waters, commands that Army post.

Symington Fears Half Missouri's Farmers Need Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) says half of Missouri's cattle farmers may be bankrupt unless they receive adequate drought relief funds from the government.

Symington said unless he is informed by Agriculture Secretary Benson that funds are available and will be used, he will ask President Eisenhower to call a special session of Congress to provide aid.

"Because this record breaking drought now threatens the economic well being of Missouri and other states, I intend to ask the President to call such a session to the end that relief can be obtained for these unfortunate people," Symington wrote Benson.

A proposal that the state share with the federal government the freight cost on hay shipped from other states has evoked some interest from Undersecretary of Agriculture True D. Morse, Symington said. The senator said he discussed the plan with Morse Monday.

Symington suggested to Benson a cut in the five per cent interest rate on farmers home administration funds and criticized the "rigid" drought relief regulations laid down by the state director in Missouri.

He said because of the regulations, Missouri, the state "with the worst drought condition, is receiving the least assistance."

Prof. Piccard Dives 10,000 Feet In Sea: Deepest Ever Reached

OFF PONZA ISLAND, Italy (AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard rode a diving box 10,000 feet to the bottom of the sea today, deeper than man ever has gone, and refloated it with a triumphant "all's well." He was undersea a little over two hours.

Piccard's son, Jacques, accompanied him as the diving box—52 feet long and 24 feet wide—amidships—was lowered by cable. It was surfaced with the help of buoyant gas, after anchor weights were dropped off.

The Swiss-born scientist reported he touched the bottom of the Tyrrhenian sea at 10,334 feet—nearly two miles and more than double the 5,085 feet two French naval officers set Aug. 12 off Toulon, France.

Brookfielders Okay $250,000 Bond Issue

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Brookfield voters, who have never failed to pass a school bond issue, yesterday approved, 855-331, a $250,000 bond proposal to repair existing school buildings and to build additional facilities in the high school vocational agriculture department.

No Retail Sales Tax Planned

Ike Declares His Administration Has
No Intention Now
To Propose Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today his administration has no intention of proposing a retail sales tax. He did not rule out, however, the possibility of a manufacturer's excise tax.

In a brief news conference discussion, Eisenhower declined to predict whether it might be necessary for the administration to ask for new taxes of some kind to offset reduction of income taxes and elimination of the excess profits levy scheduled for Jan. 1.

Under present law, individual income taxes are due to come down 10 per cent with the new year. The administration has said this will go through as scheduled.

As for a retail sales tax, Eisenhower said that for many years he personally has been against one.

Now the treasury has made a detailed study, he said, and has concluded this field of taxation belongs to state and local governments.

Eisenhower covered a variety of subjects in the news conference, his first in 10 weeks.

There was first of all the well-publicized announcement of his choice of Gov. Earl Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States as successor to the late Fred M. Vinson.

On other subjects, the President:

1. Said that barring unforeseen developments, the administration does not expect a special session of Congress to be called for action on raising the debt limit.

2. Called Russia's hydrogen bomb progress a matter of the greatest significance calling for prayerful study by the United States, but said he is not ready to assay publicly the effect the Soviet development might have on this country's defense spending program.

3. Described Poland's action in relieving Stefan Cardinal Wysynski of his church duties as a development very discouraging to efforts to achieve some kind of understanding with Russia and the satellite countries.

4. Said the imminence of a dock strike in the New York harbor area has been called officially to his attention and the matter has been referred to the Labor Department for study.

5. Said he had no comment on when he will be ready to name a successor to Martin P. Durkin as secretary of labor, but took sharp issue with Durkin's contention that the President broke an agreement to support proposed changes in the Taft-Hartley law.

6. Said that so far as international conferences with Russia and the other major powers are concerned, he always is willing to take any step which will relieve world tension. He added that the big thing, in considering such conferences, is whether you might do more harm than good.

7. Repeated that he has no plans to go into individual states in support of individual Republican candidates for state offices.

8. Declared the U. S. agreement with Spain for American use of Spanish air and naval bases was an arrangement in which the American government obtained certain things it needed in exchange for giving Spain certain things it wanted. The President added he believes the agreement will work to the benefit of the United States.

9. Said he does not know at this time whether the postponed Bermuda conference of the heads of state from the United States, Britain and France will be rescheduled. The conference, originally scheduled for June, was put off because of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's illness.

Eisenhower said he is trying to build a record on which people who want to support the administration will want to stand for public office.

Urge Special Session Over State Drouth

Ask Governor
Call Legislature
To Aid Farmers

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Rep. Max Myers (R) of Joplin urged Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today to call an immediate special session of the Missouri legislature to cope with the drought emergency.

As chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Myers told the governor the state has enough money in reserve to meet "this economic crisis."

His suggestion was contained in a letter to the governor made public by the House speaker's office. It was released on the heels of a statement by a Farm Bureau official tagging the 1953 drought as the worst in Missouri history.

Myers said it was apparent to him from the governor's recent statements that the chief executive was using a peddled but as protection to his injured left hand. Erskine's eighth successive ball put Woodling on and loaded the bases. Martin swung at a 1-1 pitch and slammed a 400-foot triple over Robinson's head in left center clearing the bases. Rizzuto, the eighth batter of the inning, rapped a two-bouncer to Cox who threw to Hodges for the out.

Four runs, two hits, no errors, one left.

Second Inning
DODGERS—Reynolds' third pitch to Campanella hit him on the right wrist and sent him to the ground. Campanella arose quickly however and took his base apparently uninjured. Hodges filed to Woodling in short left. Furillo was fooled on a called third strike that broke beautifully over the plate. Cox lined into the left field corner for a double, sending Campanella to third. Wayne Belardi, a left handed batter, went in to hit for Erskine. Belardi went down swinging.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

YANKEES—Jim Hughes, a big right hander, took the mound for the Dodgers. Joe Black, last year's three time starter in the series and winner of the opener, began limbering up in the Dodger bullpen. Reynolds struck out. McDougald bounced out. Reese to Hodges. Reese raced behind second base to gather in Collins' pop up.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning
DODGERS—Gilliam struck out. Reese walked. Snider struck out. Robinson went out on a soft liner to Martin.

No runs, no hits, no errors, one left.

YANKEES—Bauer watched a third strike. Berra struck out, but had to be thrown out when Campanella dropped the third strike, the catcher to Hodges for the putout. Mantle singled sharply to right. Mantle was out down attempting to steal. Campanella to Reese.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning
DODGERS—Campanella went out on a sky-high pop up to Rizzuto. Reynolds sneaked over a third called strike on Hodges. Furillo walked. Cox filed to Bauer who raced into center field to take the out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

US-France Agree
On Aid to Push War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and France jointly announced plans today to step up the anti-Communist war in Indochina with a $85 million dollar increase in American assistance over the next 15 months.

A communique issued by the two governments announced that France "is determined to make every effort to break up and destroy the regular enemy forces in Indochina."

Hiccoughs 8th Day

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A West Plains man today went into his eighth day with a siege of the hiccoughs.

Carl Foster, 33, superintendent of a garment factory, is a patient in a Springfield hospital.

His physician said today his hiccoughs appeared to be slowing down, but he still was going pretty strong.

Yanks Overpower Dodgers, Take Opener 9 to 5

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees, after their fifth straight World Series championship, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 9 to 5 today in the first game of the 1953 classic.

While the Bums showed their power in three home runs, it was the Yanks who poured on the power to take the contest.

For the Yanks it was 9 runs, 12 hits, 0 errors, 6 left on. The Bums had 5 runs, 12 hits, 2 errors and 12 left.

Sain was the winning hurler, Labine the loser.

The starting lineups:

DODGERS
Gilliam, 2b; Reese, ss; Snider, cf; Robinson, lf; Campanella, c; Hodges, 1b; Furillo, rf; Cox, 3b; Erskine, p.

First Inning:
YANKEES
McDougald, 3b; Collins, 1b; Bauer, rf; Berra, c; Mantle, cf; Woodling, lf; Martin, 2b; Rizzuto, ss; Reynolds, p.

DODGERS
Junior Gilliam slashed a single through Reynolds' legs into center field. Reese, in a fit and run attempt, lifted a soft fly to Bauer, Gilliam scampering back to first safely. Snider went out on a high chopper to Martin. Gilliam reaching second. Robinson went out on a pretty play by Rizzuto who came in fast for his tricky bouncer and caught Robinson with a quick under handed throw.

YANKEES—McDougald sent a soft pop up to Gilliam behind first base. Collins walked on four straight pitches. Bauer's curving liner to right center got by Snider and rolled to the wall for a triple, scoring Collins with the first run of the game. The ball had to be retrieved by Furillo who was backing up the center fielder.

Berra went down swinging after hitting a long foul on a 3-2 pitch. It was the first strikeout of the game. Erskine, pitching carefully to the switch hitting Mantle, walked the batter on four pitches. It was an intentional base on balls.

Erskine's first three pitches to Woodling were balls. The batter was using a peddled but as protection to his injured left hand. Erskine's eighth successive ball put Woodling on and loaded the bases. Martin swung at a 1-1 pitch and slammed a 400-foot triple over Robinson's head in left center clearing the bases. Rizzuto, the eighth batter of the inning, rapped a two-bouncer to Cox who threw to Hodges for the out.

Hint Red China Has Trouble With Discipline At 107, Mrs. Johnson Is Still Undeclared

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China's newest internal organization hints the Communists are having more difficulty maintaining discipline in their ranks.

In announcing the creation of a set of "supervisory correspondents," Peiping described them as selected from "activists in production, upright and responsible, loyal and courageous and able to maintain contact with the masses."

Translated from Communist gobbledegook, this describes a new set of domestic spies. They spell trouble for dissidents in the party ranks. Their job is to watch fellow workers, making sure they refrain from "damage to the state and the peoples' interest."

The new gunshoes will not get salaries, but will be paid "expenses" for their reports.

Why is Peiping starting this new system of internal spies? It's not easy to say, but there are some hints here and there in Red propaganda.

One is that too many party big wigs have been resisting "criticism." That is, they have fought back when people have accused them, usually anonymously, of misdeeds in the party lexicon.

They have tried to find out who accused them and, frequently successful, have used their power to protect themselves and take revenge.

To the Communist bosses—the men at the top—that sort of thing imperils the whole party structure. That's because it is upon the willingness of the party commissars and cadres to accept criticism, to criticize themselves (and of course repent their misdeeds) that party safety lies and party power is made solid.

To defend their actions and to answer criticism with logical defense is to adopt bourgeois logic which denies the basic theory that the party is infallible.

The new spy system inevitably will increase the already taut atmosphere of suspicion and fear in Red China. It also seems to carry the danger of more internal conflict. For now no Red worker will be able to trust any other.

At 107, Mrs. Johnson Is Still Undeclared Sculptress-Suffragette May Still See Her Museum-Dream Come True

ADELAIDE JOHNSON AND "MONUMENT." Beside her famous woman's statue in the crypt of the Capitol, she chats with Rep. Victor Wickersham, who thinks she should get $25,000.

By Patti Simmons
NLA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Any day now mail delivery to the old row house where Adelaide Johnson lives will start picking up.

On Sept. 26 others will bring birthday greetings in person to this 107-year-old woman who has made plenty of Washington headlines in her day.

The tiny, blue-eyed centenarian is the official sculptress and one of the few survivors of the suffragette greats.

She knew and lived with Susan B. Anthony. She shook hands with Abraham Lincoln. In her life she has traveled by stage coach and sky coach, and has crossed the Atlantic 76 times.

As in other years, a birthday cake and a speck of wine will be but a part of Mrs. Johnson's birthday celebration. Proudly admiring orchids will deluge her with enough to turn the head of a debutante. One recent year she received 103 of them.

There have been birthdays when Mrs. Johnson received her friends at a reception held right beside her famous "Woman's Monument," which stands in the crypt of the Capitol. Other works of Adelaide's are in Rome and London.

She studied in Europe under Monteverde and was presented to Queen Victoria. Mrs. Johnson is especially proud of what George Bernard Shaw once said about her work. "Those are living people," is the way he put it.

For some years now Adelaide's birthdays have been duly heralded

Miss English To Missouri Library Meeting

Miss Mary English, head librarian of the Sedalia Public Library, will leave Thursday evening by train for Kansas City, where she will remain through Saturday to attend the three-day annual convention of the Missouri Library Association at the Continental Hotel.

The convention is devoting its attention to the theme: "Meeting Missouri's Needs for Librarians: An Immediate Goal."

Miss Marie Fritz, of the Sedalia library staff, will go to Kansas City Wednesday morning to attend that evening's pre-conference film workshop being held at the North Kansas City public library. She will return Thursday evening.

Stanley Vestal, author and lecturer, will address a public meeting at the hotel Thursday night. His subject will be "The Writer's West."

There will also be a general session to emphasize the importance of pictures, recordings and other audio-visual materials used in today's libraries.

Mrs. Johnson was forced to move out and leave her statues behind because the furnace was frozen and the place was in such disrepair. Since then she's been living with a neighbor, Mrs. Meta Grace Keebler.

Now only her statues are threatened with eviction, fairly regularly. That is whenever Adelaide falls behind in her $73 a month museum rent.

The fact that vandals break into the place and leave a trail of scattered suffragette records around the deserted studio worries Mrs. Johnson almost as much as the rent. Most of her carefully preserved documents on the woman's movement are the only ones in existence.

But nothing takes the spunk out of Adelaide for long. She's come through a lot of crises in 107 years.

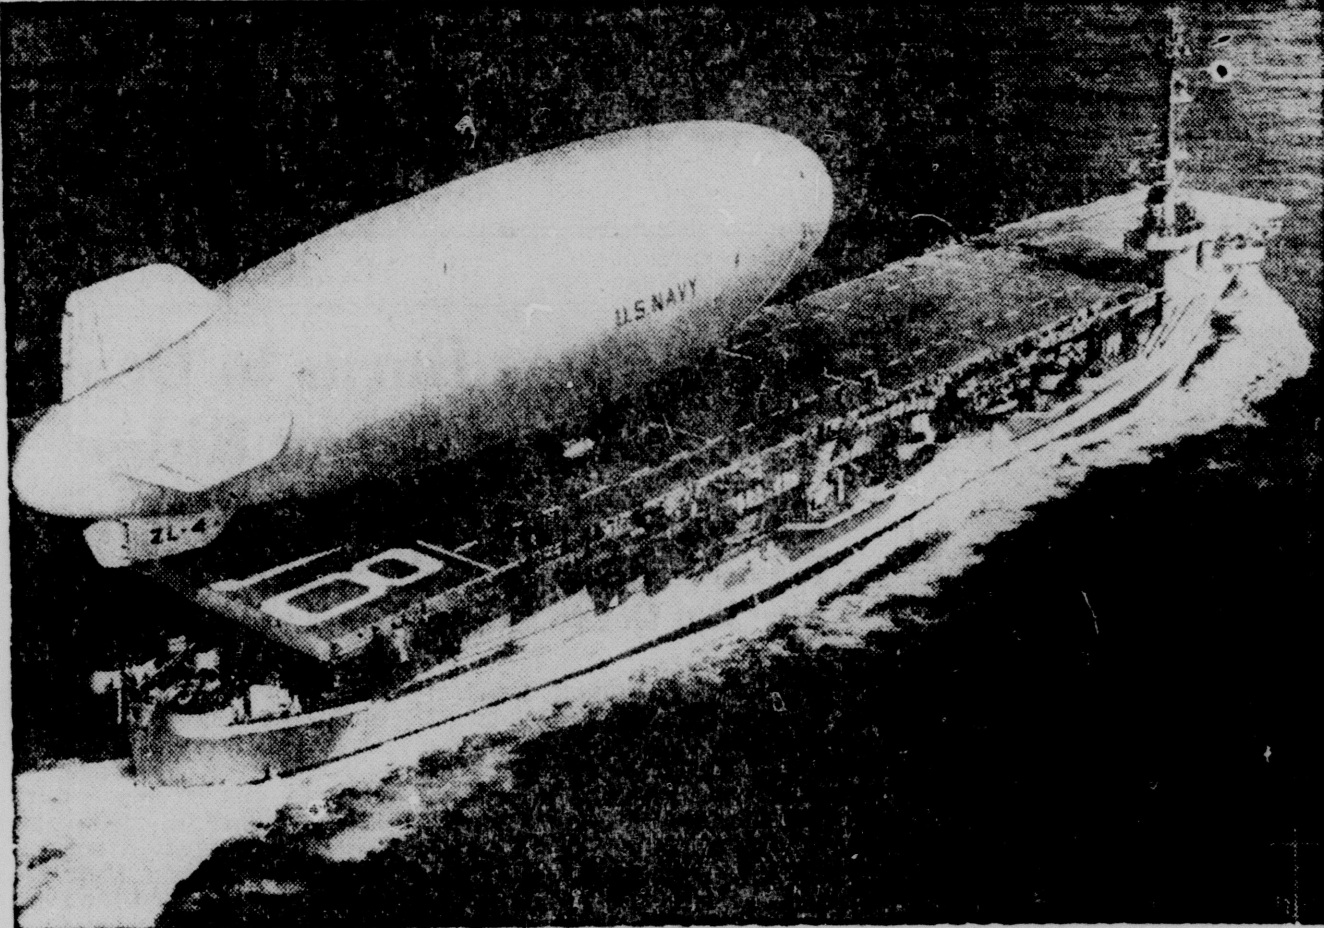

There was the time she fell down an elevator shaft. Adelaide refused to believe the doctor when he told her she would never walk again. She not only walked again, but got herself a fine case of frozen fingers when she went blithely off to Europe on a cattle boat. Only a bit less heroic were the onion sandwiches the artist lived on one year when she went broke in Rome.

There have been bills introduced in Congress to help Mrs. Johnson. One by Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire; another by Rep. Victor Wickersham of Oklahoma. The latter believes the government should pay her $25,000 for her Capitol monument.

This way she could repurchase and restore her studio into which, during her life, she figures she put something like $60,000.

Should her museum-dream come true by Sept. 26, 1954, Mrs. Johnson feels she'll really have something to celebrate.

Governor Lets Boys Keep Deer They Had Saved

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Two little boys, slicked up in their Sunday best, changed the "established policies of the state" yesterday and got a deer in return.

It started when Buddy Barack III, 14, and his brother, Lawrence, 9, called on Gov. John S. Battle to discuss a problem dear to their hearts.

The governor listened to how the youngsters had saved a deer from a pack of dogs last summer. They nursed it, cared for it and named it Bambi.

Then they got the word. State law said the doe had to be turned over to a state game preserve.

That was what the boys went to see Gov. Battle about. Couldn't he use his power and prestige to let them keep the deer?

The governor called State Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn. To let the boys keep the deer would be against the law, but . . .

Late yesterday, the governor called his secretary and dictated a letter.

"Dear Buddy," it began.

"It is seldom that one or two individuals within the space of a few hours can reverse the trend of established policies of the state. But, after considering . . ."

Yes, the governor said, the boys could keep their pet.

Red Who Flew MIG to Seoul Is On Okinawa

TOKYO (AP)—A young North Korean pilot who flew a Russian-built MIG15 to South Korea Sept. 21 is in Okinawa helping American fliers test the jet fighter, an authoritative source said today.

Whereabouts of both the MIG and its pilot had been secret.

Gen. Mark Clark, commander of U. N. forces, has offered to return the MIG to its "rightful owner" once ownership has been established. But he said the North Korean pilot who landed it at Kimp'o Airfield would still get a $100,000 reward offered for the first MIG delivered to the U. N.

The pilot disappeared from public view Sept. 22. The plane was dismantled, loaded aboard a giant C124 Globemaster and taken to an undisclosed destination.

A reliable source, who asked not to be named, said the MIG was taken to Okinawa and reassembled.

The pilot arrived in Okinawa shortly afterward.

The source said American Air Force test pilots have made flights from Okinawa in the MIG.

He said the North Korean officer has also flown the MIG from Okinawa.

The MIG was originally scheduled to be taken to Wright-Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio, for study by U. S. Air Force experts.

It's a picture that brings you peace of mind... the comfort and security that come from knowing an inside story of your health.

If you should be one of those who have active tuberculosis without knowing it, your chest X-ray will probably detect it in its early stages and point the way to prompt, effective treatment.

Remember—if the proper treatment is started in the early stages of TB, the cure is comparatively easy. The longer TB goes undetected, the longer and costlier the cure.

Protect yourself and your family by having your chest X-rayed Friday or Saturday.

BPW to Hear William Bird Of US C. of C.

William J. Bird, southwestern district manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce public affairs division, will be the speaker Monday, Oct. 5, at the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club which will be held at 7 p.m. at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. Bird was born and raised in St. Joseph, served two years on the editorial staff of the St. Joseph News-Press and just prior to World War II was membership secretary of the St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce. He is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

Serving nearly five years with the Army Air Force, at the time of his separation Bird held the rank of major and was director of training and operations at Brooks Army Air Field, San Antonio, Tex. He re-entered chamber work following his discharge from the Air Force, as manager of the Marion County Chamber of Commerce at Ocala, Fla., and since October 1948 has been on the national chamber staff as program advisor in the southeastern division. He was later promoted to his present position as assistant manager of the southwest division with headquarters in Dallas.

Representatives from various civic clubs, as well as from the Business and Professional Women's Clubs in this district, will attend the meeting.

Chester A. Brown, executive manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, will sing several selections.

Dinner music will be by Mrs. Donald Donath and Miss Rose Marie Reed, violinists, with Mrs. Mae Moser at the piano.

The program is being presented by the public affairs committee with Miss Doris Stott, chairman, and Mrs. Guy Bailey, Mrs. W. G. Borne, Mrs. Emory Bowman, Miss Emory Bowman, Miss Virginia Flower, Mrs. J. L. Heiss, Miss Hazel Palmer, Mrs. Ike L. Warren, Mrs. Everett White, Mrs. R. C. Williamson, and Mrs. Clara Wilson, members.

Wilson Doubts Russia Ready To Start War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says he doubts the Russians will start a war right now, but at a news conference he steered cautiously away from any prediction of a big clash soon in military spending.

In a separate discussion, Val Peterson, civil defense administrator, said Russia "has enough atomic bombs to drop one or more on every major American city at the same time"—and that such an attack could cause up to 22 million casualties.

Wilson was bombarded at his conference yesterday with questions about Soviet ability to make hydrogen bombers in quantity and any related reshaping of U. S. fiscal and defense plans.

Wilson agreed with one newsman that any early reduction to 33 or 34 billions in defense spending, now running between 42 and 43 billion dollars a year, would involve cut operating, combat forces.

He said he thought the budget of his department for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would probably be "something less than 42 billion dollars" and that newsmen were "getting hot" when they questioned him about a 40 billion figure.

Wilson listened with obvious concurrence when Asst. Secretary of the Air Force Roger Lewis, at the same conference, said the air force might be built up to 120 wings by July instead of the 114 wings in 1955 first contemplated under the Eisenhower administration economy program.

Post No. 98 Legion, Auxiliary to Install

The Clay T. Henderson Post No. 98, American Legion and Auxiliary will have installation of officers Thursday night, Oct. 1, at the American Legion Hall, 100 West Pettis.

Officers of the post will be installed by Rufus Thomas of Slater, past state department vice commander.

The seventh district president of the auxiliary and the seventh district past president, with the president of the Auxiliary of Post 16, will conduct the installation of the auxiliary.

A musical program will be presented preceding the installation and refreshments will be served during the social hour.

North Side Citizens To See Movies Friday

The North Side Citizens Association will see the movies of the dedication ceremony of the flag pole at Hubbard Park on Labor Day at the next regular meeting of that organization on Friday, Oct. 2, at 8 p.m. to be held at the American Legion Hall. The pictures will be shown by Dr. A. R. Maddox.

The flag pole was given to the park board by the Missouri Pacific Railroad and the Missouri Pacific Boosters Club. It was dedicated by the civic and veterans organizations of the city and the flag was raised by the VFW and the American Legion.

Lemley Acting Knob Noster Postmaster

Jack Lemley of Knob Noster has been recommended for the acting postmastership at Knob Noster by Jeffrey P. Hillelson, Congressman from Missouri's Fourth District. Mr. Lemley will continue in the position until the results of competitive examination for a permanent postmaster at Knob Noster are made known.

OBITUARIES

T. F. Dallman
T. F. Dallman, 88, died at 5 a.m. Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Erna Barbee, Warrensburg, after a long illness.

Born in Germany Aug. 28, 1865, he came to the United States with his parents as a child and was married Nov. 1, 1898 at Cuero, Tex., to Miss Martha Renger, who preceded him in death Dec. 22, 1948, following which he moved to Johnson County, making his home there since.

For a period of 12 years the family resided in Pettis County on a farm north of La Monte. They were parents of nine children, three sons, Albert, who died April 17, 1917, two surviving, Walter and Oscar Dallman, Warrensburg and six daughters, Mrs. Laura Lockard, Mrs. Ella Wack-liff and Mrs. Erna Barbee, Warrensburg; Mrs. Hilda Young, Mayview; Mrs. Mona Gardner, Warsaw; Mrs. Lillie Rieckhoff, La Monte. Pallbearers will be Harold, Earl and Charles Bergman, Royce Wimberly, Jim Steele and Dewey L. Cooke.

Burial will be in the Walnut Grove Cemetery at Boonville.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Fire Danger Eases

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Fire danger eased off slightly today in Missouri's explosively dry woods. But no rain was reported and around the clock fire fighters stayed on the alert.

Meat Price Spread Called Normal Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials of the Department of Agriculture, which is investigating meat prices, cautioned consumers today against jumping to conclusions from a simple comparison of prices of cattle on the hoof and beef at the butcher's.

They said a substantial spread between the two prices is normal, although lack of understanding of meat processing may make it look excessive.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson's announcement of an investigation last week specified that the department was trying to find out whether there had been a "widening of the spread." And he directed attention especially to "margins on the lower grades and qualities of beef."

Complaints about the price spread apparently were coming from livestock producers as well as consumers.

Farm officials, discussing in an interview the markups on meat, took as an example a beef animal selling for 25 cents a pound while retail prices of steak were 90 cents a pound.

A steer is not all steak or roasts. The ribs and loin of a beef carcass, which yield the preferred cuts, make up only about 15 per cent of the live weight of the animal.

On the average, a 1,000-pound steer will dress out only about 500 pounds of meat. Of this amount only about 150 pounds will be choice steaks and roasts. The remainder of the carcass will be processed into less desirable roasts, ground beef, boiling or stew meat, soup bones, and inedible products, such as fertilizer.

Officials explained that a slaughterer who paid 25 cents a pound for a live animal would have an investment of about 50 cents a pound in the meat obtainable from it.

To this cost, he would have to add margins to cover expenses of slaughter, aging and other processing and merchandising operations, as well as for profit.

There must be further additions to cover transportation to wholesaling and retailing outlets. The retailer must add margins to cover the costs of cutting and selling the beef as well as losses suffered from normal shrinkage in weight and fat trimmings.

Yanks Overpower Bums

rolled to Reese who flipped to Gilliam, forcing Reynolds at second.

No runs, one hit, two errors, two left.

Fifth Inning

DODGERS—Hughes, permitted to bat, took a third called strike. Gilliam hammered a home run in to the lower right field stands.

Bauer raced into the right field corner for Reese's bid for an extra base blow. Snider rapped a hit over Martin's head and with a great burst of speed, stretched out a double, coming in ahead of Bauer's wide throw. Robinson walked on four pitches.

Both bull pens started warming up hurriedly. Campanella flied deep to Woodling in left.

One run, two hits, no errors, two left.

Sixth Inning

DODGERS—Hodges blasted a long home run into the lower left field stands. Furillo flied to Bauer. Cox lined a long single to left center. George Shuba, a left handed hitter, batted for Hughes. Shuba lined a pinch-hit home run that landed in the lower right field stands, barely over the leaping Bauer's outstretched glove. It was only the third pinch-hit homer in a World Series game. The others were Berra and Mize of the Yankees. Reynolds was replaced by right hander Johnny Sain.

Shuba's two-run homer narrowed the Yankee's lead to 5-4. Martin bobbled Gilliam's roller but recovered in time to throw him out. Reese walked. Snider smacked a ringing single past Collins, sending Reese to third. McDougald gobbled up Robinson's roller and threw him out at first.

Three runs, four hits, no errors, two left.

YANKEES—Clem Labine, a righthander, came in to pitch for Brooklyn. Woodling dropped a single over Gilliam's head into right center. Martin bounced to Gilliam, whose throw to Reese forced Woodling at second. On an attempted hit and run play, Rizzuto swung and missed at a low curve that broke far outside. Campanella's accurate throw to Gilliam nipped the sliding Martin. Labine slapped down Rizzuto's hot shot back to the box and threw him out.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning

DODGERS—Campanella dropped a Texas League single into short left, the ball dropping between Woodling and Rizzuto. Hodges whistled a sizzling single off Rizzuto's glove into centerfield. Campanella racing to third, Furillo lined a single through the center of the diamond, scoring Campanella with the tying run as Hodges stopped at second. Berra pounced on Cox's bunt to the left of the plate and caught Hodges at third with a quick throw to McDougald. Manager Dressen, coaching at third, leaped high into the air and objected to the close call. But he did not argue long. Labine, hitting for himself, also dropped a bunt in front of the plate and Furillo was out at third in an identical play. Berra to McDougald, Berra camped under Gilliam's foul to the left of the plate.

One run, three hits, no errors, two left.

Eighth Inning

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Ninth Inning

DODGERS—Campanella lined to McDougald. Hodges rapped a long single to left. Furillo fouled to Berra near the field boxes to the left of the plate. McDougald whipped out Cox. Yankees win.

POINTERS FOR FITTING SHEEP—In the above picture, Moman Dowdy of Green Ridge is fulfilling FHA and 4-H boys' requests for pointers on fitting sheep. Moman demonstrated how to block a sheep on this Suffolk ewe lamb. Then he had each boy work on a sheep because he knows that boys learn best by doing. The boys plan to use these helpful tips in the sheep fitting contest on Oct. 3.

Adenauer Gains Control of Both Houses In Germany

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer gained control of both houses of the West German Parliament today with the resignation of the Baden-Wuerttemberg state Cabinet.

Minister President Reinhold Maier, a free democrat who often led cabinet criticism of Adenauer's policy, yielded to demands from the Christian Democrats that he and his cabinet resign.

Baden-Wuerttemberg voted 50 per cent for Adenauer and his Christian Democrats in the Sept. 6 elections.

Tackle Job Of Whittling US Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two presidential commissions today tackled the job of whittling down "big government."

A 25-member commission on intergovernmental relations assembled to take the oath of office at the White House while the new 12-member Hoover Commission set up near Capitol Hill.

The larger body was charged by President Eisenhower with studying how to eliminate "frictions, duplication and waste" between the federal government, on one hand, and the state and local governments on the other.

Revenue-hungry states and cities primarily would like the federal government to move out of some tax fields—like gasoline, tobacco and admissions—so they can move in.

And officials point out that the government would like to turn over to the local units some of its acquired burden of matters like airport and road construction.

The Hoover Commission, headed by 79-year-old former President Herbert Hoover, is moving into a broader and more controversial field than did the bipartisan Hoover Commission of 1947-49.

Its seven Republican and five Democratic members, aided by nine "task forces" of experts, as many fields, will take on questions of policy as well as government organization. It can recommend not only streamlining, but also elimination of federal activities as it sees fit.

Hoover gave notice, at a news conference yesterday, that he will inquire into "government competition with private enterprise." Questions of public power development and transmission, as well as of government lending and federal housing aids, will be explored.

Hoover said a major task now will be to eliminate by merger or otherwise some of the "appalling" number—some 75 or 80—of agencies which report to the President.

Other task forces, which Hoover is authorized to appoint, will be assigned to civil service, budgeting, accounting, water and power resources, medical services, subsistence services (such as feeding the armed forces), the lending agencies, and surplus property use and disposal.

Circuit Court

In a written opinion filed Tuesday, Judge Sam C. Blair agreed with defendant George Anson that judgment against Anson in the Sedalia police court several months ago is invalid, but he stated that, nevertheless, he was unable to grant Anson's motion to dismiss the case. The motion was overruled.

Judge Blair explained that appeals from police court to Circuit Court, like those from Magistrate Court to Circuit Court, are treated as entirely new ones as if they had originated in Circuit Court. Therefore, any judgment of the police court would have no bearing on a motion to dismiss.

Anson was found guilty by police court on March 18 of resisting arrest, running a stop sign and disturbing the peace. He was fined $50 and assessed $12 court costs.

In his opinion, Judge Blair stated, "I have no hesitancy in saying that the present judgment is invalid." By way of explanation he referred to a decision by a higher court in which it was held that a "judgment based upon an information embracing multiple counts is of no validity."

The trial has been set for Oct. 7.

For H.S. Students Here Thursday

Thursday is chest x-ray day for high school students in Pettis County with the students receiving the x-rays at Smith-Cotton High School during the day.

This is made possible through the Pettis County Tuberculosis Association and the association is giving still more to the people of the county—free chest x-rays to everybody on Friday and Saturday, through both evenings, at the Pettis County Court House.

A chest x-ray brings good news if it shows a healthy chest, if it shows an already won battle with a TB germ or if it shows TB in the early stages, because chances of curing TB are excellent. The x-ray not only tells if there is TB, but it also tells if there is a growth of any kind on the lung and has been the means of saving lives when people had no idea there was anything wrong with them.

The x-ray is the sure way to know there is nothing wrong.

Probate Court

The will of the late Elizabeth McCabe, who died Sept. 20, was admitted to probate Tuesday. A daughter, Ethel Lambirth, 1002 North Grand, was named executrix. She was also listed as an heir, along with two other daughters, Maude Beatrice Coker, Oster Bay, N. Y., and Ruth Esther Dixon, 1913 West Broadway, a son, James Gifford McCabe, LeGrange, Ill., and a granddaughter, Virginia McCabe, Billings, Mont. Leo J. Harned is attorney for the estate.

Paris Meyer, 46, of 409 North Prospect, lost one of his ring finger, left hand, Wednesday afternoon at about 1 p. m. when a folding chair collapsed beneath him at the Main Street Cigar Store. His finger was caught in the chair and the tip sliced off.

He was taken to Bothwell Hospital in the McLaughlin ambulance. Dr. D. R. Edwards gave emergency treatment. His condition was reported as satisfactory.

Second Square Dance In Series Friday Nite

The second in a series of dances for the Sedalia Square Dance Association will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Smith-Cotton cafeteria with Orville Essman, St. Louis, as the guest caller.

This is not to be confused with the beginners class and refresher course dance sponsored by the association which will also be held Friday at 8 p.m. This latter dance will be at the Sacred Heart gym.

Vishinsky Sees No Hope Over Korea Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Chief Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the United Nations today there was no possibility of "hoping" that the proposed Korean political conference will meet unless the U. N. reconsiders its previous decision.

Vishinsky referred to a U. N. decision taken last month to exclude neutrals from the conference which is scheduled to open by Oct. 28.

The fiery Russian demanded that the 60-nation political committee take up immediately a debate on suggestions from Communist China and North Korea that India and other neutrals be invited and Russia be asked to sit in also as a neutral.

He heaped scorn on a proposal by Chief U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. that the conference could decide for itself whether to invite some neutral powers.

It would be impossible to give delegates the proper instructions to do so, he declared, and charged that the countries which opposed an invitation to India and other neutrals here would continue their opposition at the conference.

Referring to Allied claims that more debate here would disturb the prospect of a successful conference, Vishinsky asked: "How can anyone say we should not disturb the peace conference if there is no peace conference?"

Before the meeting, the United States and Britain were confident they had enough votes to prevent reopening of debate on the question. Whether Vishinsky's warning on possible collapse of conference plans would have any adverse effect was not immediately apparent.

Vishinsky said that because the armistice agreement imposed on Oct. 28 "deadline" on the convening of the conference, the U. N. should immediately take up the question as one of urgency.

He also declared that if the conference did not meet it was certain that South Korean President Syngman Rhee could use this as an excuse for reopening the war.

Today's first meeting of the 60-nation Assembly Political Committee was the scene for a decisive third round in the Red battle to get consideration at once of Communist demands to expand the Korean peace conference to a round table including neutrals.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky had served notice that he would demand that the committee take up Korea as its first agenda item.

Led by the United States and Britain, the 16 U. N. members which sent troops to Korea strongly opposed any such discussion until the proposed political conference gets well under way. They planned to move for postponement of the Korean question until late fall—the conference is supposed to start Oct. 28—and claimed enough votes to put this over.

The Allies won the first two rounds of the battle with Vishinsky last week when the Steering Committee and the Assembly both spurned Russian attempts to upset the previous U. N. decision that the Korean conference should be a two-sided parley of belligerents.

U. S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. took a lot of wind out of the Red sails last week when he suggested that the conference itself decide whether to invite other countries.

France, among others, hailed that idea and said she would work for an invitation for India.

But the French were not so happy about another item on the Political Committee worksheet—Assyrian-Arab charges that France's treatment of Moroccan and Tunisian nationalists threatens peace.

Ike Declares: 'Never Broke An Agreement'

WASHINGTON (AP)—With a flash of anger, President Eisenhower said today he never has knowingly broken an agreement with any associate. The statement was made in reference to the resignation of Martin Durkin from his Cabinet.

Squaring his jaw, Eisenhower told his news conference that if anybody in the room had evidence to the contrary he could have the floor and present it then and there.

Durkin, who quit as secretary of labor, told the AFL convention that the President backed down on an agreement to recommitment and 19 changes in the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Durkin addressed the convention as head of the AFL plumbers union, a job he resumed after quitting the Cabinet.

The White House denied at the time that the President ever committed himself to any specific recommendations.

Eisenhower himself, asked today for his own version, said at first he would not give it because it has always been his policy to avoid comment on individuals.

Then, eyes flashing, the President said that to his knowledge

Rules Set Up On Final PW Explanations

PANMUNJOM (P)—The Korean Repatriation Commission today laid down the ground rules for explanations to war prisoners who refuse to go home and Allied officers accused the commission of buying "everything the Communists wanted."

Allied spokesmen said the U.N. Command will protest the rules under which Allied and Communist officers will seek to convince some 23,000 reluctant prisoners to return home.

The explanations were to start tomorrow, but a dispute over facilities for the meetings forced postponement. A commission spokesman said he did not know when they would begin.

The U. N. Command was reported deeply concerned over the rules, which provide that prisoners may be interviewed individually, even against their will. POWs also may be forced to attend more than one meeting with agents.

The Allies had insisted that prisoners be interviewed in groups and that no prisoner be forced to attend the meetings.

Allied spokesmen expressed fear the individual explanations would weaken the resistance of 22,600 anti-Communist North Koreans and Chinese POWs who have said they don't want to return home. A total of 359 Allied prisoners, including 22 Americans, have refused repatriation.

One Allied spokesman commented: "The Communists got everything but the lists of names of prisoners."

He said the commission had favored the Reds in every major dispute since the armistice.

The rules provide no time limit for the interviews, other than in event of disturbances or objections the meetings shall be stopped immediately. Commission representatives then decide whether to continue.

"No prisoner shall impede" the interviews, the commission ruled, and in the event of force or a threat of force by explainers the meeting will be suspended if either side protests. Again the commission would rule whether to continue the interview.

Interviews will be conducted daily, except Sunday, from 7:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. with one hour out for lunch.

A prisoner may request repatriation "at any time or any place."

The major provision read: "Explanations and interviews can be given to groups or to individual prisoners of war as requested by the explainers, representatives of the nation to which the prisoners of war belong. Every one of the prisoners of war shall attend the explanations and interviews."

The rule drew caustic comment from American officers, who said the prisoners "belong" to no nation and must be allowed to make a free choice.

The provisions did not specify how many "explainers" could be present at a single interview, but the armistice terms limited the agents to seven per thousand prisoners.

Ten newsmen from each side will be allowed to sit in on the interviews, of which as many as 35 may be going on at once. Neutral observers will police each meeting.

Boy, 4, Stands Up For Meals After Fling At Store Robbery

WORCESTER, Mass. (P)—A 4-year-old boy is standing up for meals today after a brief, but spectacular, try at crime.

Patrolman John J. Barry saw the tot running away from a small variety store which had a hole in a window. Barry caught the youngster, who readily turned over the loot—39 cents.

The boy had tossed a stone through the window, unlocked the door, and snatched the money. The lad was taken to his home and direct parental discipline applied.

Peggy Lee Is Suing Dexter for Divorce

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (P)—Singer Peggy Lee is suing Brad Dexter for divorce today, alleging cruelty.

The couple was married last Jan. 4. It was Miss Lee's second marriage. She has a 9-year-old daughter, Nikki, by musician Dave Barbour. Dexter, 33-year-old Yugoslav actor and music scout, also is known as Boris Vello McConovitch Mitchell. Edward J. O'Connor, Miss Lee's attorney, said there are no demands for alimony or sharing of community property.

Red China Recruits Red China Rejects

HONG KING (P)—Red China's rejection of a British protest over the attack on a Royal Navy launch Sept. 9 surprised officials here—but only because they had expected Peiping to ignore the protest.

Seven men were killed and five were wounded when a Communist gunboat opened fire on the launch in the Pearl River Estuary a few miles from this crown colony.

In rejecting the British protest, Peiping accused the British "gunboat" of firing first and said the Communist vessel returned the fire in self defense.

Reports Jail Escape, Then Disappears, Too

LINCOLN, Neb. (P)—When a fellow state reformatory inmate jumped from a truck driven by trusty Calvin Halligan and disappeared yesterday, Halligan promptly reported it to reformatory authorities.

Today officers sought both men. After reporting the first escape, Halligan himself disappeared.

Junior Astronomy Club Sets Thursday as Meeting Night

The Sedalia Junior Astronomy Club will meet every other Thursday of the month in room six of Smith-Cotton High School at 7:30 p.m. Membership in this club is open to "anyone interested in astronomy with the minimum age limit set at ten years."

The first fall meeting of the year was held Monday evening with the 29 current members present. Tony Walch, 711 West Broadway, is president. Chuck Wade, 1416 South Vermont, vice-president. Shirley Cooper, 405 North Grand, secretary-treasurer, and Russell Maag, 816½ South Massachusetts, adult sponsor.

Each member has purchased a copy of the popular book written by the staff of the Hayden Planetarium, New York, entitled "New Handbook of the Heavens." Also, as a result of membership, each member has received a star-constellation planisphere which enables a person to locate any of the stars or constellations by simply setting the device to the correct local time and viewing directly on a chart any of the most conspicuous star groups.

The book will be used as a text for study in a lecture-discussion type program at future meetings. This study course will be supplemented by astronomical films obtained from the University of Missouri extension film library as well as the astronomy department of Central College at Fayette.

Field meetings will be held from time to time for members to observe with the telescopes of Mr. Maag. Observing nights will be announced in this newspaper and anyone interested is welcome to attend.

Several of the club members have plans to either purchase the ready-made telescopes or make their own and it is hoped that one day soon funds can be raised in order to erect a small astronomical observatory. Mr. Maag has offered his fine reflector telescope for use

Talks to Her Sister In Romania. Now Fears It Brought Misfortune

LOS ANGELES (P)—Mrs. Fedora Berman says she made the mistake of asking her sister in a long-distance telephone call to Bucharest, Romania, whether she would like to come to the United States.

"On yes, yes," her sister, Dr. Antonette Teodorescu, a physician, was quoted as replying yesterday.

Mrs. Berman said the conversation was immediately cut off, indicating that it was being monitored. Mrs. Berman said it was the first time she had been able to converse with her sister in years and that now she feared for her safety.

About four years ago, she added, she got a telephone call through to her brother in Odessa, Russia, and hasn't heard from him since.

College Students Get Vacation As Result Of Water Shortage

ATHENS, W. Va. (P)—Concord College's 145 students are today enjoying an expected and indefinite vacation.

Dr. Virgil H. Stewart, president of the college, said all classes have been postponed "until further notice" because of a "critical municipal water shortage."

Mayor Rouse B. Cook said the college consumes more than half the town's water supply, with 300 of the students commuting from nearby areas.

West Berliners To Resist For Lord Mayor

BERLIN (P)—Doughty West Berlin pledged today to keep clenched the first of resistance to Communism as a lasting monument to its dead lord mayor, Ernst Reuter.

Men who often differed with the Socialist leader in his lifetime threw factionalism aside and vowed to carry on the battle for freedom and unity in his tradition. Reuter's sudden death last night spread momentary dismay, quickly followed by a swell of new determination and pride in Berlin's role in the cold war.

Christian Democrats who battled Reuter's Socialist policies declared in their party newspaper: "Parting from Ernst Reuter, we emphasize our determination to continue fighting with all our strength for the great aim for which he sacrificed himself. The same day we achieve unity and freedom for Berlin and Germany, his name will be quoted as the man who helped us to reach this goal."

Germans of all walks were convinced Reuter's abrupt passing came from his zealous day-and-night work to preserve West Berlin's freedom and someday see his nation unified.

From the Brandenburg Gate to the White House, the Western world mourned the militantly anti-Communist mayor. President Eisenhower, whom he had visited in Washington last March, termed him "a born leader... a rare combination of talents, including courage, intelligence, energy and dedication to the cause of freedom."

As thousands of candles burned in West Berlin windows throughout the night, Reuter's city organized the funeral. It will be held Saturday, a giant gathering in front of the City Hall where the American-donated Freedom Bell peals. The body will be held Saturday, a giant gathering in front of the City Hall where the American-donated Freedom Bell peals. The body will be carried in procession over a six-mile route.

The huge state funeral will be attended by West German President Theodor Heuss and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, along with top Allied officials.

A final, private ceremony will be held for the mayor's widow, Hanna, who was at his bedside when he died, his two sons and his daughter.

Berlin's leader of the opposition Christian Democrats, Deputy Mayor Dr. Walter Schreiber, took over the city government for the present. City Hall came to a standstill save for funeral arrangements.

The city government will vote a more permanent government next week. Schreiber's Conservative coalition has the votes to keep him in office—66 to the Socialists' 61. They have had this majority for three years, but Reuter's personal prestige had kept him in office.

The 64-year-old Reuter became ill early yesterday and was ordered to bed, though his doctor did not consider his ailment serious. During the afternoon he took a turn for the worse and died at nightfall.

Reuter had learned his anti-Communism from the inside. A Socialist from his student days, he had joined the Communist party after World War I and been a commissar of the Volga German republic for Lenin. Disillusioned by "Russian nationalism and imperialism," he returned to socialism's ranks in the 1920s.

The Russians had vetoed his election as Berlin's first postwar mayor and he took office in the American, French and British sectors only after the split in the city and the Western portion's free elections in December 1948.

Merry-Go-Round

Ike Reassures Humphrey On Future Tax Reductions

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Quiet-spoken Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, who has more influence with the President than anyone else inside the cabinet was quite worried the day after Ike's Boston speech. He was so worried that he put through an urgent phone call to the President himself.

What upset Humphrey was the day the newspapers played up the President's remark that "no sacrifice, no tax" was too great for the defense of our freedom, and had interpreted this as meaning the excess-profits tax and high personal income tax might not be dropped after Dec. 31.

The President, however, reassured him. He had not meant to imply, he said, that these tax reductions were out the window.

This was the backstage reason why Humphrey suddenly went before the American Bankers Association convention here with a reassuring tax-reduction statement aimed at changing the press interpretation given to the Boston speech.

Humphrey said nothing about the national sales tax, however. It's still under consideration.

Note—Those who sat with General Eisenhower at a once-famous dinner at the P Street Club recall that his views have changed radically since then. At that time Ike told a group of Republican leaders that if young men had to give up their lives in wartime he saw no reason why businessmen should not give up their profits. He was in favor of using taxes to remove all profits during wartime, he said. The reaction was such that several Republicans present said they would not support him.

J. L. Lewis Expounds

While other congressional solons have been junketing or gathering headlines around the world, GOP Sen. Homer Capehart of Indiana has been making an important, though unpublished study of how our multi-billion foreign-aid program is paying off in foreign trade.

As chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Capehart has appointed 121 leaders from business, labor and finance to help chart a course on future foreign aid. Meeting behind closed doors with them the other day, he got some strong and conflicting views, especially from John L. Lewis and from Paul Hoffman, former Marshall Plan administrator, now chairman of Studebaker automobiles.

"A large part of the money sent over there hasn't benefited the common people," opined John L. Lewis. "It's filtered up instead of down. It's being used for speculation purposes by bankers and politicians, instead of raising wages and the living standards in countries we are trying to help."

The big miner chief also said he had been informed that about $2,460,000,000 of our aid money had been used to purchase government bonds, on which we have to pay interest.

"That's the same as if I went to Alfred Sloan of General Motors and said, 'If you give me $5,000, I'll buy some G.M. stock so I can collect some dividends.'"

Non-Paying Neighbor

On the general question of foreign trade, Lewis said that some nations were slow about reciprocating our "good neighbor" policies.

"Take Brazil, for example," he pointed out. "We buy close to $700,000,000 worth of coffee every year from Brazil, but when that nation wants to buy something it shops around in all the cheaper markets of the world, using American dollars Brazil doesn't buy American goods except on the cuff."

What he referred to is the fact that the United States has just given Brazil a $300,000,000 credit to pay for goods bought in the United States, chiefly automobiles.

When Paul Hoffman was called upon, he found himself standing between Senator Capehart in the front of the Senate committee room and about 100 members of the advisory group seated in the rear. Turning toward the latter he said: "There was a time when I never dared to turn my back on a United States senator, but perhaps in this case I should do so."

Hoffman told the closed-door session that any program which called for "giving away" something was "essentially unsound." The American people, he added, had every right to expect that the money now being "invested" in foreign aid would come back to us in future trade. However, Hoffman warned that some nations might not survive in trade with us unless foreign aid is continued.

"I do not believe that the free world will remain free or continue to gain strength unless the nations we are now helping under the mutual security program are able to get American goods and services to the extent of about $16,000,000,000 a year," he declared.

U.S. Bonds Abroad

Note—What John L. Lewis says about U.S. aid going to the higher-bracket Europeans and not trickling down to working groups is essentially what this writer has frequently reported from Europe. Mr. Lewis has an amazing memory for figures and is essentially right about foreign investors having $2,460,000,000 of American bonds. (Actually the figure is $2,422,000,000.) However, most of these bonds are not held in countries which received Marshall Plan aid from the United States. Canada, for instance, is the biggest holder of U.S. bonds, with $77,000,000. Cuba is another fairly big bondholder with $153,000,000 of U.S. bonds, almost the same amount as English holders, who have $160,248,000. Britain once received Marshall Plan aid; Cuba has not.

France, a heavy recipient of Marshall Plan aid, holds only a dribble of $6,390,000 in U.S. bonds, in contrast with Western Germany, another heavy recipient, which holds $285,000,000, now being one of the most prosperous countries of Europe.

Asiatic countries, which are not generally recipients of Marshall Plan aid, also hold U.S. government bonds, the largest being tiny Thailand with $178,000,000, which is more than the British hold. U.S. bonds are chiefly held by individual citizens of foreign countries, not by foreign governments.

World Strife Over Korea Just Distraction to US

By BRUCE BIOSATT

First the controversy raged over who should attend a Korean political conference. Now it will focus on where the meeting shall be held. This latter seems certain to be a smaller dispute, but it may turn out to be fairly distracting, at that.

If we Americans are going to understand world affairs sufficiently to be able to devise sane policies, then we will need an increasing talent for delving beyond surface complexities to the real core of our problems. We cannot allow our insight to be blurred by distractions.

For instance, the recent UN debate on the Korean meeting seemed to be mostly about India and whether it should take part. But it really was not. India was just a symbol.

India stood for the idea championed by Britain and others that any Korean conference necessarily must be a round-table affair at which a wide range of Asiatic problems will be discussed. They had particularly in mind matters like admission of Red China to the U. N., and the future of Nationalist-held Formosa.

We, on the other hand, see a conference as essentially a peace gathering at which only the belligerent nations should be present. We fear that more remote issues like Red China and the UN will only be used to confuse. We believe Chinese Communists must show by their attitude toward a Korean settlement that they deserve to be taken on broader questions.

Underlying this basic between the United States and its allies is a differing outlook toward the strategic position of Korea and China. This country always has shown a prime concern over any significant developments affecting those areas, not to mention Japan and the Philippines.

They lie on the Western rim of the Pacific and we on the eastern, and though 6000 miles of water intervene, no lands of protecting nations do. We do not view lightly the growth of unfriendly power on the western rim.

To Britain this is of secondary importance. Its interest in China is largely commercial. Its call for "realistic" recognition of the Reds, expresses British hopes that conditions will arise permitting widening trade in that area.

The British do not worry much over the threat a Communist Korea poses to Japan, now for all practical purposes an American outpost. The Korean danger is not suspended over Britain's heart, but ours.

These are the things that lie at the core, though they are seldom readily visible. Yesterday the talk was of India, tomorrow it may veer off in another direction. But it goes back to these fundamental differences in national interest.

There need be nothing fatal about these divergences in outlook. That is, so long as each nation recognizes the real source of the other's behavior and policy. Conflicts of national interest are inevitable, even among friends.

Leukoplakia, Common to Heavy Smokers, Needs Careful Watching

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Today's first question is particularly clear and to the point.

Q—What is a condition of the mouth called leukoplakia? What is the cause, and what is generally done for it? This is said to be a pre-cancerous condition. Is this usually so? L. P.

A—Leukoplakia is a condition of the lining or mucous membrane of the cheeks, tongue, or gums, with the development of whitish, thickened patches. Its cause cannot always be determined, but it is particularly common among heavy smokers. If someone who develops leukoplakia has the habit of smoking, it should be discontinued, and sometimes other irritating substances can also be eliminated. It is sometimes a pre-cancerous lesion and therefore should be watched with care.

Q—I have a 10-year-old daughter who is constantly in the public eye because she is in show business. We are troubled, however, by the superfluous hair she has on her eyebrows and she has taken quite a lot of kidding because of it. I have plucked some of them but wonder if this is right, Mrs. S.

A—In a problem such as this, with only a comparatively few number of excessive hairs in a strategic location, one would think that their permanent removal by electrolysis would be best. Advice on this could be obtained from a skin specialist or a competent electrologist.

Q—Can you give me any information on spina bifida, and if there is any cure for it. Why are some babies born with it?—Mrs. J. T.

A—This abnormal condition of the spine is present at birth and is considered to be a failure of complete development. Why it should happen in some and not others, no one knows. In some cases in which the condition is not too severe, it may be possible to repair the situation with surgery.

Q—Have started to lose my hair for the past two months, and have gone to a skin doctor who told me it is from childbirth and ether. Do you think I will develop permanent baldness?

Mrs. F. B.

A—Every once in a while a person will lose hair following an operation, childbirth, a severe illness, or the administering of an anesthetic. Why this should occur is somewhat puzzling. It is possible that all the hair will fall out, but in all probability, it will grow in again, perhaps with a different texture and even slightly different color.

Don't Expect Miracles Very Soon

The World Today—

Must Study Acts of POWs

By DON WHITEHEAD

(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The return of prisoners of war from Korea was a happy occasion that brought joy to thousands of homes. Most of us would like to ignore the other side of the story—the ugly side.

But it cannot be ignored—not if there is any real meaning to the red badge of courage worn by the living and the dead who stood fast against Red propaganda and torture. Sooner or later the armed services will pass judgment on the conduct of some prisoners while they were in the hands of the Communists.

Presumably, there will be no problem in classifying any prisoner who chooses of his own free will to remain with the Communists. He would be considered a deserter and in effect a traitor to his country.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has said individual cases will be studied to determine if there had been "an unreasonable failure to measure up to the standard of individual conduct which is expected even of a prisoner of war, or deviations from standards of behavior prescribed by law (the code of military justice)."

These cases fall into three general categories:

1. Those prisoners who collaborated with the Reds and "ratified" on their comrades in order to gain favors for themselves even though it meant greater misery for others. 2. Those prisoners who, under pressure of threats and torture, signed false confessions and made propaganda broadcasts for the Reds which Wilson termed "contrary to the interests of their country."

3. Those prisoners who, the Reds say, have refused repatriation and have chosen to remain with the Communists. Only 23 out of more than 3,000 Americans are listed in this class, and their shocked parents refuse to believe they are acting voluntarily.

Indications have been the military will be sympathetic toward the former prisoners, taking into account their suffering at the hands of the Reds.

But where is the line to be drawn in an "unreasonable failure" to measure up to the standard of conduct expected of military men? There is the rub.

The easy and perhaps the popular way out would be to forget the whole thing. But such a course would set a dangerous precedent for the future.

Gen. William Dean says he told his captors they could go ahead and carry out their threats to cut out his tongue if they wished, but he wouldn't be a propaganda agent for them. He said he refused to be considered a traitor to his country. Other prisoners told of defying the Communists even to the point of risking death, and such defiance did mean death for some.

Other prisoners say they succumbed to Red demands only after hours of mental and physical torture when it seemed the only course to save themselves and others from death.

There is tremendous sympathy for the prisoners and what they endured. Most of us wonder in our hearts how we would react in a similar situation. We wonder whether we would be a Dean or someone with an easier breaking point. No man can say with certainty until he has been put to such a test.

But neither can a man forecast how he will conduct himself in combat until he has experienced it. And yet, the armed forces have stern rules of conduct governing combat men. The rules must be stern because the very life of the fighting units and of the nation may depend on observance of these rules. They cannot be taken lightly.

The trouble here is that the enemy fights by no rules of humane warfare and recognizes no agreement on treatment of prisoners. And so the military must apply its old rules of conduct to a terrible new situation.

The closest door can hardly be closed on this skeleton.

The small boy stood before a little girl and boy at the Melita Day Nursery recently and was "marrying" the two. On either side of tiny bride and bridegroom stood the attendants and the little preacher was doing his best to tie the knot as the other children at the nursery looked on.

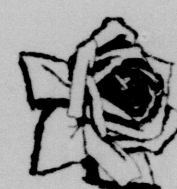

"I'm not going to kiss her," one of the little boys said in a loud whisper.

The little preacher's voice rang out: "Take hold hands" and the little boy and girl solemnly joined hands.

"Put the ring on her finger," said the preacher, and the little "bridegroom" did — he put a ring on one of her little fingers — of course he put it on the right hand — but it really didn't make much difference as long as he got it on.

Well, that was it. The ring was on her finger, the ceremony was over, and they were married, and we hope, as the fairy stories say: "They live happily ever afterwards." — H. L.

THE waiting room was deserted except for a small, black kitten which lay purring in the sun on a window ledge. Dalloway sat down on one of the long wooden benches, his brief case across his knees.

"Tell me, Dalloway, who was the second plane ticket for?" Greer asked.

"When I'm going on a long journey I always buy two tickets. It ensures me privacy."

"All right. Now let's have the truth."

"Very well. I met a lady last night. In a bar. It was one of those things, mutual attraction and all. Unfortunately, when she sobered up this morning, the attraction was no longer mutual and she didn't want to go East because it gets too cold in the wintertime."

"Did you get your money back on the ticket?"

"No, I decided to keep it. For sentimental reasons."

"I'd like to see it."

"Sorry." Dalloway was still smiling but his hand tightened on the brief case he held in his lap.

"O.k.ay, Dalloway." Greer's voice was tight with rage. "Give me another surprise. Hand me that brief case."

"I won't hand it to you. If you want it, take it by force. Clyde will be a witness."

"I don't like to be a witness to anything illegal," Frank said. "You're not going to be a witness, Clyde. Take Dalloway's brief case and open it."

Frank reached out and took the brief case from Dalloway's lap, handling it cautiously as if it was full of snakes.

Frank opened the brief case and removed the contents item by item, setting each item carefully on the bench beside him: two current magazines, a Los Angeles paper, a toothbrush and tube of paste in a special travel case, a clean white shirt, a pint of bourbon unopened, and a brown paper bag, the top folded down and sealed with scotch tape. The bag was fairly heavy and there was a sharp clink of metal when Frank put it down on the bench.

"What is it, a homemade bomb?" Greer asked.

"A homemade bomb. Yes, that's what it is, in a way. I didn't make it myself. It was handed to me for safekeeping. I was quite wrong, of course, to accept the responsibility. I see that now. But at the time I thought that I could perhaps take the money and send it back to its rightful owners without incriminating myself or anyone."

"What money, and whose?"

"I don't know who it belongs to, but the amount is $3000 and some silver." Dalloway rubbed one of his cheeks where the blood vessels had broken, leaving the skin tattooed with tiny purple crosses. "I am not prepared to say anything more at the present time."

"Let's have the rest of it."

"That's all, I tell you."

"Then I'll tell you, Mr. Dalloway. For that $3000 a sick old woman was kidnapped."

Dalloway sat quietly. "I'd prefer not to answer any more questions until I see a lawyer."

"Your preferences don't weigh very heavy with me. Where's Mrs. Goodfield?"

"I don't know."

"Where's Ada Murphy?"

"I have no idea. I'm not familiar with the name."

"Are you familiar with the face?" Greer took from his billfold the picture of Murphy gazing into the store window. In the unposed snapshot Murphy's characteristics stood out with sharp distinction.

"She's not the lady you picked up in a bar last night? And she didn't give you this $3000 to keep for her or split with her?"

"No."

"You're a liar, aren't you, Dalloway?"

Frank stepped between the two men. "Take it easy. There's a lady coming."

The lady, a platinum blond wearing enormous jeweled sunglasses, teetered into the waiting room on four-inch heels.

Greer reached the door before she did. "Wait a minute, please."

"Just what do you think you're doing? Get out of my way. That's my plane. I'm late."

"You're later than you think, Murphy."

She reached up, slowly, and took off the jeweled sunglasses. She looked first at Greer, then at Frank, and finally at Dalloway.

"It was Dalloway she addressed. 'You lousy stool pigeon.'"

Dalloway got up and walked toward her. The flat of his hand struck her across the cheek. The force of the blow staggered her but she didn't fall, didn't cry out.

"Would you care to repeat that, Lora?"

"I don't mind," she said with a little shrug. "You're a lousy stool pigeon."

Dalloway struck her again. This time Greer tried to stop him, but he wasn't fast enough. Lora fell against the door. Still she made no outcry, gave no indication of the blow. It was as if she had lost his power to hurt her and she derived a certain pleasure from having him try and seeing him hurt himself instead.

She picked herself up. Her wig had slipped a little so she took it off entirely, yanked it away from her real hair with a spill of bobby pins and tossed it on the floor.

"Think how tough you could get if you had two arms," Lora said. "As it is you merely bore me."

Dalloway covered his eyes with his one hand. "What did I do, what have I ever done to deserve you?"

Lack of Local Interest Loses Two State Roads

Two local roads, one each in Saline and Osage counties taken over for maintenance by the state last year, were turned back to those counties by the State Highway Commission during its September meeting. The action was taken because right of way was not provided to permit development of the two roads to supplementary standards.

Engineers in Divisions 4 and 5, in which the counties are located, reported that there has not been sufficient local interest in the roads to provide this needed right of way. Because right of way on all supplementary routes must be supplied without cost to the state, the engineers recommended the roads be turned back to the county, and the Commission so ordered.

Both roads were taken over by the Commission for maintenance in its original takeover action Aug. 1, last year, under the state's 10-year highway modernization and expansion program. The one in Saline county, Temporary Route U, extended from Route 20 (A), east of Blackburn, south about 2.5 miles. The Osage county road, Temporary Route P, extended from Route T, near Koeltztown, westerly about 6.5 miles to Route M, about two miles north of Melita.

Thus far it has been necessary for the Commission to turn back to counties only one other takeover road because of failure of local authorities or citizens to provide right of way. The other returned road was in Pemiscot county.

she had done because water poured out all over the floor and all over her — but there wasn't a thing she could do to stop it. — H. L.

On the wall at the Melita Day Nursery is the little sign: "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," and John was mighty impressed with those words. But John was new at the nursery, he stood back and watched the other children and didn't enter into things.

A few days later he came into the nursery after playing in the yard and glanced at the Golden Rule: "You know he hit me," he said. "What are you going to say about that?" — H. L.

Atomic Schools Open In Army For Enlistees

Male high school graduates who can meet certain special qualifications may now enlist for special Army schooling in atomic weapons subjects, according to Master Sergeant Brady Ray, Sedalia's Army and Air Force recruiting sergeant.

The course is designed to qualify men for assignment to atomic weapons support units.

There are openings now in the mechanical assembly course, electrical technician, electronic technician and the nuclear technician courses.

Men found qualified and enlisted into the Army will receive eight weeks basic training at the ordnance replacement training center at Aberdeen, Md. This is followed by eight weeks of special technical pre-training. The men are then transferred to the technical training detachment at Sandia Base, Albuquerque, N. M., where they will perform the specialties for which trained.

Any young man interested may contact Sgt. Ray at his office on the second floor of the Sedalia post office building.

American Is Losing the Art Of Conversation to Talk-Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (U—) Everybody knows the art of conversation is dying in America, but nobody does anything about it except talk...talk...talk.

That's no help. Mere talking doesn't make a conversation, as every wife knows.

Television today is often blamed for throttling conversation. It is the other way around. People turn in desperation to the TV screen to escape the boredom of meaningless geese gabble that starts from nothing and gets nowhere.

What is really destroying conversation is the fact everybody is trying hard to become a brilliant conversationalist—and going about it in exactly the wrong way.

The slogan of America's period of rugged individualism was "Be Yourself." And most everybody was himself—and a real individual who prided himself on his individuality. He meant what he said, and said what he meant.

Today too many people would rather be popular than right. They have the idea that they can be popular and successful only if they don't act like themselves. They are caught in a great herd self-improvement campaign. They all try to be like somebody else.

But they merely end up looking and acting like each other—like movie starlets, who wear the same mask of glamor and only their own mothers could tell them apart, or would want to. Somewhere along the way they lose their own personality in exchange for that of a puppet.

When it comes to improving their conversation, they buy a $3.50 book (marked down to 98 cents) entitled, "You Can Hold Them Spellbound, or How to Gab Your Way From the Gutter to the Stars."

They all study the three great secrets: (1) The best listener is the best conversationalist; (2) Get the other fellow to talking about himself; (3) Don't say anything that might hurt anybody's feelings.

When you get caught in a roomful of people all trying at the same time to use these three keys to conversational success on each other—well, mister, the cobwebs gather early. It goes like this:

"What did you say?" "Oh, I didn't say anything, I thought you were going to say something."

"Well, sure been a nice day. Now tell me something about yourself."

"Oh, no, you tell me about your self. You look so interesting."

And nobody in the crowd would dare even to criticize cancer, because, after all, it hits a lot of nice people. Maybe somebody in the room secretly likes cancer, and you wouldn't want to make him feel bad, would you?

Everybody feels it's safer and makes him more popular to converse in platitudes in these latitudes. But each just finds the other less worth ever wanting to see again.

I haven't met him, but I hear the most popular man in town—hostesses fight for him—is a crotchety, uncouth fellow who boasts he never read a book, scratches himself in public, uses a toothpick at the table, and opens a conversation by booming out some such remark as:

"The only sensible way to solve poverty is to start hanging poor people again. That's what makes poverty, isn't it—poor people?"

Well, in five minutes the party is in an uproar. Everybody is forgetting his book, and saying, "Shut up. Now you listen to me." They go from argument to argument, and everybody enjoys a wonderful conversation. Those who agree end up buddies, and hate everybody else—and that's the way it should be.

"I can't see why you invited a man who says such stupid things," a guest says when the cause of the hubbub bows out after hurling a final insult. And the hostess replies:

But fellows like this are rare. Most conversations languish because one gent is afraid to give his own opinions because he is positively cooking both ears to be sure and impress another gent who never had anything in his life worth saying, and wouldn't have the courage to say it if he did.

Of course, there are all sorts of angles to this question, and I could be wrong, and anyway I was just thinking out loud. Let's talk about you. What do you think of—

Oops! See what I mean? I read that book, too.

Most farmers have no trouble recognizing pink-eye. Its name is very descriptive. It may be caused by one or all of several different pus forming bacteria. It is thought that vitamin A deficiency predisposes to infection, along with strong sunlight and dust.

Continued neglect may result in fever, loss of appetite and general systemic reaction.

It seems to me this disease gives us more trouble in treating successfully than most any other. So far, the only recommended treatment is: First, separating the infected animals from the herd, confine the infected animals in a dark place, give succulent feed and plenty of water. Treat eyes daily with a sulfa powder, solution or emulsion.

Most of our leading laboratories think that there is little or no merit in using a mixed bacterin (vaccine). However, many of our farmer customers insist that it does help to a certain extent. We have a large stock of the market's finest products for this purpose.

Yanks and Dodgers Begin Today the Climb to New Heights

New York Seeks Fifth Title, Dodgers Their First Crown

No Team Has Ever Won Five Straight Before, No Brooklyn Nine, In Seven Tries, Has Ever Ruled Baseball World

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel's proud New York Yankees and Charlie Dressen's powerful Brooklyn Dodgers sought to reach previously unscalable heights today as the two championship clubs opened the 50th World Series before some 70,000 spectators at Yankee Stadium.

The Yankees, winners of five straight American League pennants, are after an unprecedented fifth successive world's championship. The Dodgers, hailed as "the greatest team in Brooklyn history," went into their seventh October classic with a record of never having won a series.

Probably because they feel they've got to ride with a winner, the odds-makers have established the Yankees a 13-10 favorite to polish off the Brooks for the fifth time in as many clashes. The Bronx Bombers whipped the Dodgers in series competition in 1941, 1947, 1949 and 1950. The series went to the seventh game last year.

The game was slated to get under way at 1:05 p. m., EST, and close to 80-degree weather was promised. A sellout was assured long ago with thousands frantically seeking precious tickets with little or no success. The series will be telecast by NBC and broadcast by MBS.

Allie Reynolds, 35-year-old veteran mound campaigner, was Stengel's choice to get the Yankees off winging. He was to be opposed by Carl Erskine, slim 25-year-old right-hander, who developed into the Dodgers' ace the past season, winning 20 games.

Reynolds won only 13 games against 7 losses but the strong-armed right-hander is known as a great money pitcher. He already has won six World Series games, four over the Dodgers, and needs one more to equal a World Series.

Both Stengel and Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees fell over himself being polite. His final pregame statement: "We've got a nice team and they have a splendid team over there so it should be a splendid World Series. What!"

Both Stengel and Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers have been warned by Commissioner Ford Frick that beanballs will not be tolerated. He also instructed them not to blast the umpires after the games for what they considered adverse decisions.

Dressen is keeping a secret "book" on the Yank batters, but he is willing to discuss reserve infielder Willie Miranda, who isn't much of a hitter. "His weak spots is pitched balls," quipped Cholly.

Television officials say this series will be telecast by the largest network in history—119 stations in 113 cities. . . . And no fewer than 750 radio stations will carry the broadcast.

The Brooks allotted six tickets to each Yankee player for the Ebets Field games but received only five for the stadium games themselves.

Three scalpers have been tossed in jail for trying to sell six tickets to Ebets Field games for $170. The tickets had a face value of $42.

If any game isn't finished by darkness—which is unlikely in view of the early starting time—the lights in either park will be turned on.

Sports Roundup—
First Game Not Bellwether Of a World Series Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—They are playing another World Series opener today, and we have been hearing and reading a great deal about the vital character of the contest—how the Yankees will be stricken virtually defenseless if they should lose it to the Brooklyn Dodgers and, of course, vice versa.

It got us to wondering why they even bother to play more than the one game if that's the case—barring the sordid financial aspects—and the next step was to grab for a record book. Before you give up on your beaten heroes tonight, join us in a look.

Their chances of coming back to win the championship are, so far as we can make out, exactly even if you can believe what has happened in the past 20 World Series. If that's a fair enough sample, then it doesn't matter at all whether a club wins or loses the first game.

Beginning with the 1933 playoff, in which Carl Hubbell starred in the New York Giants' 4-1 series victory over Washington, 10 teams which were destined to emerge as proud champions got their ears beaten off in the opener. The same number won the first one. If you wish to go back through the eight series before that the ratio remains precisely the same, but you get the idea. It just doesn't make any difference. We have no idea why this should be so.

A year ago, lacking a day, Joe Black came out of the Brooklyn bullpen to hammer the Yankees and Allie Reynolds, 4-2, and set off a great rejoicing in Flatbush. If a relief pitcher could start and beat the mighty world champions, then the rest of it should be a breeze. But when they got around to the seventh game it was Rey-

Select Yanks to Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Thirty-seven of the 60 writers polled by the Associated Press selected the New York Yankees to win the World Series from the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Of the 37, 22 picked the Yankees in six games, 10 thought they would win in seven and five saw them taking it in five. None thought the Yanks would sweep through in four.

Of the 23 who selected the Dodgers, 14 saw it going six games, six like the Brooks in seven, two selected them in five and one brave soul thinks the are going to take it in four.

Both teams, after engaging in final tune-ups yesterday, went into battle at top strength, Carl Furillo, the National League's batting champion, who has been sidelined since Sept. 6 with a broken finger suffered in a brawl with Leo Durocher, was in right field for the Dodgers. Gene Woodling, also nursing an injured left hand, was at his old post in left field for the Yankees. Each has received permission to use sponge-rubber padding on their bats.

Also back in the lineup for Brooklyn was Gil Hodges, the slug-ging first baseman, who cracked a couple of rib two weeks ago while substituting for Furillo in right field.

Despite their inglorious series record, the Dodgers felt confident that this would be their year. And they had plenty of supporters, who pointed to their power-packed lineup that embraces five .300 hitters and the circuit's leading batter and run-producer. It is a club that pummed out 208 homers and established 35 records, a majority of them with flailing bats.

The Yankees' lineup is not nearly so awesome but it is a well-knit machine that accentuates defense, coordination, spirit and the confidence of long-time champions.

It is a team that makes few mistakes and pounces on any lapse made by the opposition. It doesn't get as many runs as the Dodgers but it doesn't give up as many either.

So the series figure to come to this: Can the Yankee pitchers check the Dodger hitters? The real key may be Reynolds, whose effective mound work both as a starter and relief artist was the biggest single factor in last year's Yankee triumph.

In 19 classics since 1921, the Yankees have bowed only four times, twice to the Giants and twice to the Cardinals. The last time the Yanks lost a World Series was in 1942 to the St. Louis Cardinals.

After Reynolds, the Yankees can throw Eddie Lopat, crafty south-paw, who paced all American League pitchers with a 16-4 won and lost record and a 2.41 earned run average. Right-hander Vic Raschi (13-6) and left-hander Whitely Ford (18-6) are almost certain to work in the third and fourth games.

Erskine figures to carry out the big load for the Dodgers. If the series goes the limit, he may be called on to hurl the fourth and seventh games too. After Erskine comes Preacher Roe (11-3). The rest is anybody's guess, including Dressen's. He has such right-handed candidates as Billy Loes (14-8), Russ Meyer (14-8) and rookie Bob Milliken (8-4) besides freshman southpaw Johnny Podres (9-4).

This group hardly compares to the Yankees' seasoned mound corps, which also includes right-hander Johnny Sain and left-hander Bob Kuzava.

To refresh the memory further, the playoff before that saw the Giants win the opener at Yankee Stadium behind little Dave Koslo. It also saw them take a 2-1 game lead, same as the Dodgers last year, only to get their lumps then from Reynolds, Ed Lopat and Vic Raschi in bifurcal succession.

If our bifurcals are not doing tricks, no club has lost the first two games and still wound up with the championship since the seven-game playoff was adopted in 1922. The nearest thing to it seems to have been Pittsburgh's rally to defeat Washington in the '25 classic after having trailed 1-3.

J. White and H. Schmitt were the battery for the Sacred Heart nine. Joyce Moon was the winning pitcher for Hughesville.

The Sacred Heart softball crew defeated a strong team from Hughesville Tuesday afternoon, 20-14.

Sacred Heart's big rally came in the sixth inning when the Grem-lins scored five runs to pull ahead 12-11. Woolery and C. Long were the leading hitters with three hits each.

The battery for Sacred Heart was Long and Coffey; for Hughesville it was Ringen and Phillips.

The Sacred Heart girls were not so fortunate as they lost their five inning game, 11-13, to Hughesville girls.

Baltimore Industrialists Buy Control of the Browns

Had Money Ready While Others Talked So They Get Veck's Stock, Move Franchise There for Their Orioles

By BEN PHLEGAR
NEW YORK (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles today set up in business as a major league club for the first time in 50 years, pouring thousands of dollars in fresh money into the American League's weakest franchise.

In 62 swift minutes last evening a syndicate of wealthy Baltimore industrialists headed by Clarence W. Miles bought control of the impoverished St. Louis Browns for $2,475,000, agreed to pay outstanding debts of about $600,000 and announced they would spend "all the money we can" to transform the seventh-place team into a winner.

Miles' associates, who include brewery, munitions and airplane executives, obtained control of the Browns from Bill Veck at the end of three days wrangling in the most convincing fashion—by producing cold cash when other interested parties were having trouble getting up the ante.

Between Sunday night, when the American League turned them down, and last evening the Baltimoreans increased their immediate bid by more than 1½ million dollars.

Money made the difference. Although Baltimore alone among the seven cities under consideration offered a suitable major league ball park and a concrete proposal when the civic delegations were received by the American League on Sunday, only four clubs voted in favor of the move on the first ballot.

A three-hour league session Monday brought a proposal by Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, to negotiate for Veck's stock on behalf of unnamed West Coast interests. Miles' group immediately announced plans to match the bid. Originally they had been dickering for only half of Veck's stock.

Yesterday Webb ruefully reported failure and acknowledged that the Baltimore deal was the best available. He made the motion to approve it.

He did win one concession for the West—a change in the league constitution providing for a 10-team circuit at a time when it would be feasible to include such Pacific Coast cities as Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The Baltimore syndicate, admittedly feeling its way as far as actual baseball operations go, stepped neatly most of the queries on immediate plans.

"We have just gotten a ball club," Miles said. "It looked Sunday as if we were licked. The change came suddenly. We've got a lot to learn."

"We will spend all the money we can to improve the team, Jack Dunn, president of the Baltimore team, said. The International League, which will be associated with us."

Dunn has been mentioned as a likely prospect for the post of general manager.

Veck apparently emerged from his St. Louis venture ahead financially. Backed by a group of Chicago investment bankers, he paid about $1,800,000 for his Browns' stock. He estimated his losses during 2½ seasons at upwards of $750,000.

Yet he sold Sportsman's Park for $800,000 to the St. Louis Cardinals, received almost 2½ million for the franchise and a reported $300,000 from the Cardinals for leaving town. This last figure, never confirmed nor denied by the Cards, was disclosed yesterday in St. Louis by the Post Dispatch.

Veck, jokingly referring to his profit as "ill-gotten loot," said he made "very little" money on the deal. He declined to specify exact amounts. Neither did he indicate any plans.

claiming: "City gets the Browns." "It's the greatest thing since the Armistice," said Baltimore bartender.

But it was hard not to expect some kind of booby trap which would blow up in your face any minute.

"I can still hardly believe it," said Father William Davis, dean of the night school at Loyola college and an ardent baseball fan.

And that's the way a lot of Baltimoreans felt.

David Chestnut, a 30-year-old Baltimore Negro, said when asked his reaction: "I'm happy, man, happy! We're going to out-Milwaukee Milwaukee."

And so it ran throughout the city. "We'll really show 'em something," was a theme.

It has been a general feeling here that if the city ever got another major league franchise whop-ping attendance could be looked for.

Baltimore has been a baseball city ever since 1871. Its Orioles—the same name the Browns will adopt—have played in major or minor leagues with marked success.

Meanwhile, St. Louis baseball fans were busy trying to get used to the idea of being a one-club minor league town.

Now only the National League Cardinals remain.

Fans generally were sorry to see the club go but there didn't seem to be any alternative. Financial troubles plagued the Browns.

Businessmen concerned with the baseball operation figure the shift will cost the city about half a million dollars a year.

Bratton Meets Wilson

BALTIMORE (AP)—Johnny Bratton, the off and on fighter, opposes Al Wilson in a return bout here tonight with a possible shot at the welterweight title at stake for the winner.

The scheduled 10 round bout in the coliseum will be on the television screens of the CBS network. Scoring by the referee and two judges is by rounds.

The winner undoubtedly is going to be clamoring to be included in any elimination in the event Kid Gavilan vacates the title.

The Buffs' victory over Arizona ran their home unbeaten record to 12 games—longest ever at C. U. Oklahoma and Nebraska gained titles at Boulder last year but they were the only ones to seriously threaten the Buffs on their home grounds.

Sophomores have key roles in the Colorado team. They delivered magnificently in the opener against Washington but slacked off against Arizona. And results of the Missouri game depend largely on whether the sophomores come through.

Top billing for the sophos goes to Homer Jenkins, a 5 foot 10 inch 172 pounder, dubbed "Hotrod Homer" by his fellow players. He is a triple-threatener on offense and a rugged defender. Another sophomore, fullback Emerson Wilson of Kansas City, played an outstanding brand of ball in both the Arizona and Washington games. He was moved into the starting slot when senior fullbacks Bill Horton and Don Shelley were sidelined by injuries. Wilson may have earned the regular starting berth on the basis of his early season showing.

Colorado's topflight junior fullback, Carroll Hardy, has been plagued with injuries and it's apparent that the Buffs' single wind

La Starza Still No. 1 Contender For Title
NEW YORK (AP)—Despite his knockout loss to the strong-armed Champion Rocky Marciano, Roland LaStarza still is ranked as the No. 1 heavyweight contender in the latest Ring Magazine ratings.

The New Yorker was continued in his runner-up position today by Ring Editor Nat Fleischer for the first six rounds of the Marciano battle and because of the two defeats suffered by former champion Ezzard Charles.

Charles was kept in the No. 2 post by Fleischer because he has a better overall record than his two conquerors, Nino Valdes, and Harold Johnson. The latter is the top-ranking light heavyweight contender.

Valdes, of Cuba, was moved up from No. 4 to 3, reversing positions with Philadelphia's Dan Buceroni.

Carmen Basilio, the Canastota, N. Y., welterweight who gave Champion Kid Gavilan the battle of his life, was promoted from No. 4 to No. 2, one peg behind Johnny Bratton.

"I thoroughly investigated the possibility of the Browns moving to another town and found no practical way of retaining them in St. Louis. I am extremely sorry to see them go."

Newspaper vendor Walter Murray didn't feel that way.

"They should have been moved," he said. "They were a flop weren't they? In St. Louis, you've got to produce, whether it's baseball, milk or automobiles."

Colorado Out to Keep Win Streak On Home Diamond

In 12 Games The Buffaloes Have Not Lost at Home; Missouri Hopes to End Skein at 'Unlucky 13' on Saturday

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Colorado's Buffaloes, sailing high on a new home winning record, try Saturday to trample Missouri's Tigers in the mountain lair where no visiting college team has won since Oklahoma escaped with a 27-18 victory in November 1950.

Coach Dal Ward's current Silver and Gold eleven is the first in 10 years to have won its first two games—a 21-20 decision over Washington at Seattle and a 20-14 triumph over Arizona at Boulder last Saturday.

The Buffs' victory over Arizona ran their home unbeaten record to 12 games—longest ever at C. U. Oklahoma and Nebraska gained titles at Boulder last year but they were the only ones to seriously threaten the Buffs on their home grounds.

Stover Fall Festival Attracts Old Residents

Many friends and former residents of Stover, from near and far, attended the Fall Festival and Golden Jubilee Sept. 24, 25, and 26.

A special feature was the decorated float parade held each evening and Saturday morning. St. Paul's Lutheran Church won first place in the floats, Stover Homemakers Club, second, and the junior class of the Stover High School, third.

The many attractions and exhibits brought back fond recollections to the earlier citizens and an appreciation of progress which has been made in the last 50 years. During the festival some of Stover's oldest citizens and business men were interviewed and they recalled the social and economic conditions of Stover from 1903 up to the present day.

Weevil Worries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U.P.) — No wonder farmers have headaches. T. H. Parks, an entomologist at Ohio State University, says one pair of grain weevils have 60,000 offspring in four months' time.

One hundred pairs of weevil parents plus their progeny can contaminate 1,400 bushels of wheat in four months so that the Food and Drug Administration will declare the grain unfit for human consumption.

Parks says the best defense against the pests is to clean and spray grain bins before harvest time and then spray walls and floors with 5 per cent DDT.

State Funds Are Now Available To Counties for Road Projects

State funds totaling $588,617.50 now are available to counties for aid in maintaining county aid roads during the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, 1954, according to the State Highway Commission. A total of 11,772 miles of such roads have been designated as eligible to receive this money.

The allocation to counties was made by the State Auditor for their use if they choose to participate in the new maintenance phase of the county aid road program. The money comes from the general revenue funds appropriated by the 67th General Assembly to assist counties in meeting their road maintenance problem.

The new feature of the county aid road law provides that counties may obtain up to $50 per mile for maintenance, if they put up at least an equal amount. The money can be spent only on previously improved county aid roads and only for application of additional surfacing materials. It cannot be used for other routine maintenance operations, such as grading, ditching, reshaping, etc. The State Highway Commission, by law, is charged with supervising the county aid road program. Administrative assistance in fixing rules and regulations is given the commission by a county aid road committee comprised of five county judges appointed by the governor. Those judges met with the commission in Jefferson City this month, at which time it was decided maintenance phase rules would remain approximately the same as those for the construction phase.

All applications for funds to add surface materials must be filed through the county courts of the individual counties. However, the matching county funds may come from any source within a particular county or area served by the road being improved.

If a county does not use all the money allocated to it for maintenance, the unused portion reverts to the county aid road fund for reapportionment on a statewide basis during the following year. Maintenance aid allocations made to counties for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1954, and the road mileage in those counties eligible for such aid, are:

Allotments of Funds To This Area Counties

Funds allocated to the counties of the Sedalia area under the State Highway Department county aid program are as follows:

We're Not Preparing Our Sons for Dangers Of Foreign Battlefields; Korea Is Proof

By Fred Sparks
NEA Staff Correspondent
SEOUL, KOREA — (NEA) — We are not preparing our sons physically and mentally to meet the dangers of foreign battlefields. Proof is found here in Korea in piles of statistics of physical breakdowns and mental crackups, studied during this time of the truce.

A careful examination of United Nations soldiers coming back from Communist prison camps shows that our GIs were less able to take the shocking barbaric treatment than their allies.

For example: On a percentage basis, it is positive that fewer British Tommies died during the weeks of forced marches and starvation diets.

A released British officer explained it this way: "The Yanks went to pieces in the biting cold faster than we did. They were used to softer living and were not in as good physical shape, not as tough. As a result they suffered more and lost the will to live."

As long as the United States means to be the policeman of the Free World, more and more of our young men will be sent to far off places and exposed to the same primitive field conditions found here in Korea.

As a correspondent I have seen our troopers in every one of their foreign assignments from World War II on. Once again I have become terribly aware that while the GIs are well equipped mechanically, they are poorly prepared in body and mind.

Having visited Korea's Bullet Boulevard during the costly winter of 1950, the victorious spring of 1951, and the trench warfare of 1953 I am convinced thousands of young Americans died of sheer exhaustion and suffered mental collapse because they were improperly trained.

Our GIs learn fast, but if their outfits were attacked during their first days on the line they paid—with their lives—for the mistakes of easy-going generals and complaining mothers back home.

After we got pushed off Pork Chop Hill in the last Chinese shove before the truce, a bushed and limping GI said: "We used to curse our platoon Sergeant back at Port Bragg for making us spend a night in a rock filled foxhole."

"If I was back there now I would curse him for not making us live in a foxhole for a month with shells whizzing overhead. I wasn't prepared for what we just went through."

"If we had been given a better idea of what war is really like Corporal T. . . . wouldn't have blown his top when the Chink artillery hit around us. He stood up screaming and got a hole in his chest bigger than your camera case."

If we're going to continue to underwrite the security of half the globe—from Berlin to Seoul—we must re-examine our training program and get tough.

The American mother who writes to her Congressman about bad conditions for her son undergoing basic training might be condemning him to death if and when he is sent to battle and billet in a frozen rice paddy. It is better for your son to be cold at home than cold dead abroad.

Despite the fancy talk of the destructive horror of the H-bomb, we have no proof the infantryman is obsolete. We had complete control of the air here, yet night after night our GIs were fighting—with bayonet and fist—against Chinese and North Koreans.

Certainly life complete with the pop-up toaster and home freezer makes for flabby muscles as opposed to the civilization of ox-carts and A-frames.

Touring British army camps a few years ago I noted the un-

Scholarship Now Available Here Thru Rotary Club

A scholarship amounting to approximately $3,000 is available to some Pettis County boy or girl. Harry M. Gambrel, district governor of the 194th district, Rotary International, announced to the Sedalia Rotary Club Monday noon, during his official visit, that if they could secure a qualified candidate the local club might sponsor such candidate for the above scholarship.

To qualify a student must be a resident of Sedalia or Pettis County. The student must have an outstanding scholastic record. Also, such student should have a fine record of activity participation and should possess an unusual personality. As a final qualification the applicant must have or will have senior college or university.

This offer is open either to a young man or young woman who may wish to try for it. This scholarship pays all expenses for a year's study at the school of the winner's choice outside the United States, as well as travel expenses to and from the point of study. For further details contact a member of the local Rotary Club or Ray Lippard, chairman of the Fellowship Foundation of the Sedalia Rotary Club.

heated barracks and cold, muddy maneuver fields. Touring American army camps I noted radiators whistling like tea kettles and maneuvers delayed or cancelled during poor weather.

A wise Marine general, often in trouble because he publicly speaks against panty-waist training methods, told me: "It would be a patriotic service to burn every barracks in America and make the men live on the ground."

"The Russian soldier doesn't go on occasional maneuvers. In training he is always on maneuver simulating actual war conditions."

America is talking tough. She's got to get tough, and that means in the old fashioned way of strong arms and legs that can march 30 miles a day with full pack, as well as 600-mph jets. It will be cheaper that way in the precious commodity of young men's lives.

June Haver Rests to Keep Religious Life

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD — June Haver, the movie star who gave up $3,500 a week for life in a convent, is home today for the rest that she prays will give her health to continue her religious vocation.

The 27-year-old petite beauty, her once platinum hair now returned to its natural brownie shade, flew here last night from Kansas City on orders from her doctor and religious superiors.

Severe migraine headaches and a general run-down condition caused what June hopes will only be a temporary break in her studies to become a Roman Catholic Sister of Charity.

"I found the religious life everything I hoped it would be," she said. "I lacked only the physical strength to continue. I want to return as soon as I am able."

She arrived dressed simply but smartly in a brown tailored suit. She wore nylons and brown alligator pumps and carried an alligator handbag. Lipstick was her only makeup.

Always known as one of the most cooperative of actresses, she willingly posed for pictures and chatted with reporters at the home of her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Flynn.

"I'm so surprised to see such a homecoming," she said. "I don't consider myself a celebrity anymore."

At the airport to greet her were her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ottestad; her two sisters, her grandmother and John (Judge) Carberry, an old-time friend of the family.

She disclosed that today was not the first time that she had appeared in street clothes since she entered the convent at Xavier, Kan., 7½ months ago. She said that, as a postulant, she had to dress in street clothes to make an unpublicized visit to a hospital three months ago.

It was then, she said, that she realized that her illness was serious enough to become a barrier toward completion of the two-year novitiate training required before she could take permanent vows. Her ailment, she disclosed, is tied up with a very low metabolism rate.

She said she is "supremely happy" in religious life and added that she does not intend to resume film work.

"I want only to rest," she said.

"so that I may regain my strength and resume my religious training, if God is willing."

Later at a family reunion at her sister's home, Miss Haver said she has had little news of Hollywood and the rest of the outside world.

"Life in the convent is like life in the Army," she said. "We all wait for mail call. That's our only touch with the life we left behind."

Her life in the convent has included labor in the kitchen and laundry.

Her hair was cut short in an un-glamorous trim to better fit the convent veil she has been wearing. She laughed when one of her sisters told her that she was right in style with her new "Italian bob."

Britain's Labor Minister Survives the 'Hot Seat'

Sir Walter Monckton Has Managed To Charm Tories and Labor Alike

By Tom A. Cullen
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON — Sir Walter Monckton eyed the job the Prime Minister held out to him with the suspicion of a convict eyeing an electric chair.

Minister of Labor was the "hot seat" in the Tory cabinet. Besides, Sir Walter protested, he was a lawyer. He knew little or nothing about labor problems. In fact, he had been in politics only eight months.

"Exactly," Sir Winston Churchill explained. "You have no political past."

"And now," Sir Walter reflected gloomily, "you seem to be insuring that I'll have no political future."

But Sir Walter was wrong. After two years as Minister of Labor, his political future is the liveliest topic in Westminster.

Sir Walter is commonly referred to as Churchill's most brilliant cabinet appointment. He has succeeded in accomplishing the seemingly impossible: charming Tories and Labor members alike.

Tom O'Brien, chairman of the Trade Union Congress, refers to him as "our great friend."

Tories compare him to Disraeli and even to Pitt the younger.

At 62, Sir Walter (who looks no older than 47) can just about pick his next government post.

His sleek black hair is neatly groomed and in his horn-rimmed glasses, he bears a striking resemblance to silent screen comedian Harold Lloyd. He has the same boyish smile.

It was the Duke of Windsor who brought Sir Walter into public life. They met at Oxford, where Monckton was president of the Oxford Union and the then Prince of Wales a bored undergraduate at a debate.

Monckton sent the prince a slip of paper with permission to leave before the end of the debate, and the grateful prince, in turn, sent an invitation to lunch. They became friends, and the friendship has persisted.

During World War I Monckton, who served with the Royal West Kents, was heavily gassed, won the Military Cross. The effects of the gassing lasted late into life, causing spells of hoarseness.

Fortunately, Monckton's hoarseness proved no impediment to his career at the bar. He was already gaining prominence when the Prince of Wales, by appointing him his legal adviser, set him on the road to the headlines of the abdication crisis.

It was Monckton who shuffled between Downing Street and Fort Belvedere with the King's messages and Baldwin's replies, was with the King when he went in to make his farewell broadcast, and who drove with him to Portsmouth where a destroyer was waiting to carry him away.

Monckton has appeared as coun-

Knob Noster 'Family Night' Attracts 45

By Mrs. Russell Kendrick
KNOB NOSTER—The monthly "Family Night" was observed at the Baptist Church Wednesday evening, with 45 attending. A contributive supper was served followed by the regular prayer meeting and auxiliary meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph House, Wakita, Okla., are visiting relatives here and in Warrensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Williams returned Sunday from the Lake of the Ozarks, where they went Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sauls, Donna Scott and Sharon joined them there on Sunday.

Pvt. Bennie Clark, who is stasel in many famous court cases. He argued Lady Mountbatten's petition for access to some of the capital left in trust for her by her millionaire grandfather, Sir Ernest Cassel.

But his most envied legal brief was that of the Nizam of Hyderabad, reputed to be the world's richest man. Sir Walter was for years his legal adviser and often flew out to India for consultation.

When he became Minister of Labor in 1951 he gave up an $180,000 a year legal practice for the $12,000 a year ministerial portfolio. He was forced to give up a 15-room Elizabethan country house in Worcestershire for a three-bedroom, top-floor flat in London, where he lives with his second wife.

Recalling Churchill's remark that Lloyd George could talk a bird out of a tree, the Manchester Guardian recently observed of Monckton:

"If Sir Walter could not achieve that, the bird would be made to feel that it could safely remain in the tree while he was about."

tioned at Ft. Leonard Wood, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. Mary Jo McGuire.

Leonard Clark and son, Kirby, attended a reception at the Nelson Art Gallery, Kansas City, last Sunday afternoon in honor of H.

CISTERN INTO SHELTER—Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Cook, of Lawrence, Kan., started out to build a concrete back-yard patio and ended up with a fine air-raid shelter. Excavation disclosed an old cistern right in the middle of the proposed patio area. It gave Cook the shelter idea. He plugged the open top of the cistern with eight feet of concrete. This now forms the roof of the shelter. Cistern walls were reinforced with concrete. He dug a passageway, six feet long and four feet high, connecting the shelter with the basement of his house. This also is heavily reinforced and opens into the basement through a five-inch-thick stone-and-concrete door. The shelter, with domed, igloo-like ceiling, is equipped with gas burner, electric light and a ventilator pipe running to the surface. The shelter finished, Cook built his patio on top of it. Photo shows Mrs. Cook kneeling in the shelter while a friend, Mrs. Jenevieve Davis, holds the heavy door.

Nippon Watches U. S. Dig Their Prince

Envoy's Reaction to Democracy May Help Shape Japan's Future

By EDWARD R. KENNEDY
NEA Special Correspondent

TOKYO — The eyes of Nippon are upon a shy, 19-year-old boy in the United States this month.

To most Japanese, from the Diet to the Ginza to the rice paddies, Crown Prince Akihito is now making the crucial part of his world-wide tour as he visits America.

The wave of anti-Americanism that had rumbled throughout Japan in recent months can possibly be stemmed by this slight, personable youth who is destined to some day rule over 86 million subjects.

His trip had an auspicious beginning in the Pacific voyage on an American liner. The casual, friendly shipboard incidents were widely reported with favorable comment here.

After reaching Europe, however, the eagerly awaited press accounts assumed the nature of diplomatic reports on his rigid social schedule. Few human interest stories came back to reassure Japan that their Crown Prince was having a good time.

The only story relating to his youthful age and experience was a Tokyo controversy on whether he should graduate from high school after missing the end of the current term. It was decided he should not, until he had completed all the necessary credits like any other student.

During the British Coronation, the young prince was lost in the shuffle of royalty, dignitaries and celebrities. His unassuming manner brought credit, not headlines. The few flurries of anti-Japanese feeling in Britain which forced Akihito to cancel some of his appointments were played down in the local press, but not forgotten by the Japanese.

His two minor illnesses in Italy and Switzerland caused some impatience with their heir apparent's strenuous program — but none with his healthy appetite or natural boyish desire to see all that was to be seen.

The first pictures to reach here of Akihito in the United States caused a sigh of relief. They were the first smiling natural boyish-looking pictures Japan had seen of him in months. Furthermore, he was surrounded by smiling countrymen in contrast to the stern-faced Japanese escorts in Europe.

But as the Japanese have shown family-type concern over Akihito's health, they are by no means unaware of his diplomatic mission.

He is no de-purged official matching wits and negotiating with former enemies. Here is a fresh-faced youth taking his first look at democracy in action. His reactions may well decide the future course of Japan.

The Crown Prince today occupies a unique place in the minds and affections of his subjects-to-be. Wartime defeat and an imposed constitution changed his destiny, brought him much closer to his people than any member of his centuries-old dynasty had been.

For instance, it is his portrait and not the Emperor's that hangs in the wardrobe messes of the fledgling Japanese Navy. And there have been suggestions here of the unprecedented act that Akihito make a nation-wide radio report to Japan on the details of his trip when he returns.

These are only hints of the public's changing attitude toward the imperial family, which in itself is changing toward the public.

Emperor Hirohito, governmental figurehead, spends most of his time with marine biology research, but his once taboo public appearances are no longer rare. Nearly any visitor approaching "dignitary" status will be given audience with him — and be charmed with his simplicity.

Other members of the imperial family are active in social life, frequently photographed at commoner parties, sports or charity events. And the Emperor's youngest brother was recently reprimanded by a traffic cop for driving the wrong way down a one-way street.

The prince of the blood tipped his hat to the policeman and promised to be more careful.

This startling contrast to the deified days before 1945 permits the Japanese to believe that Akihito may become an active force in the leadership of his country. If not that, his passive or positive reactions for or against democracy will be keenly felt and mirrored.

And many democratic Japanese

Smith-Cotton High News...

Miss Gray Is New Sponsor For SCHS Student Council

By Shirley Cooper

Miss Hazel Gray is now the sponsor of the senior student council at Smith-Cotton High School which meets once a week. Officers of the council are: Carl Matthews, president; Kurman Riley, vice-president; Shirley Kirkpatrick, secretary; Charlotte Houston, treasurer; Bob Cule, parliamentarian; Kenneth Bulig, sergeant at arms, and Charles Brady, reporter.

The Spiz Club elected Joy Cunningham as president with Barbara Arnold as vice-president, Mary Peters, secretary, and Pat Korando, sergeant at arms.

The Smith-Cotton Tigers played their first home game at the new stadium Friday evening with an exceptionally good crowd. Cheer leaders for the year are Shirley Williams, Patsy Eaton, Barbara Rissler, Dorothy Dey and Jeff Berry.

The band and twirlers are looking forward to going to the American Royal Saturday, Oct. 17.

The first string twirlers are Jeanne Sagar, majorette, Barbara Brady, assistant, Lydia Fumelli, Colleen Kelley, Ardis Walters and Lucille Kirby. Second string twirlers are Mary Kay Harris, Suzy Lansdown, Patsy Higgins, Kay

Harlan, Brenda Haggard and Jeanette Hutchison.

All classes and many homerooms are busy making plans for the float they will enter in the homecoming parade, Friday afternoon, Oct. 16. Prizes will be given for the best floats. The Tigers will clash with Columbia that night and this is a conference game.

Pitchers Should Sue For Non-Support

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Hard luck pitcher? Jim Pearce of the Chattanooga Lookouts has a pretty good claim to that title.

The 6-6 righthander lost five of his first seven decisions since being sent down to the Class AA Southern Association team from the Washington Senators in mid-season.

In each of his losses the Lookouts didn't score a run for him.

He went the route four times, losing 1-0, 2-0, 3-0 and 5-0. In the fifth game he was behind 6-0 when taken out.

In two of his losses, his opposing moundsmen pitched a one-hit game and it was left to Pearce to break up one of these potential no-hitters with a single.

Sweet Springs Airman Receives Navy Air Medal

OFF THE COAST OF KOREA—

In a recent ceremony on the flight deck of the attack carrier USS Boxer, Navy Lieut. Merrill C. Pinkepank, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Pinkepank, route 3, Sweet Springs was awarded a Navy Air Medal for his flying achievements during the Korean conflict.

In part, the citation read: "For meritorious achievements while in a fighter-bomber aircraft over enemy North Korea in an area where enemy aircraft and/or anti-aircraft fire could be expected. His efforts were at all times in keeping with the highest traditions of the U. S. Naval Service."
